TALISMAN 1971

Each fall students from all walks of life come to Western for an education. During the four years spent here the students' learning extends far beyond the classroom and into the lessons of life itself. Suspended in time we study ourselves; by working, talking and living together, the innocent become experienced and the walls of prejudice are chipped away. From lessons learned here, ideals emerge that guide in the transition from adolescence to adulthood.

THE GROWTH OF THE STUDENT '70-71

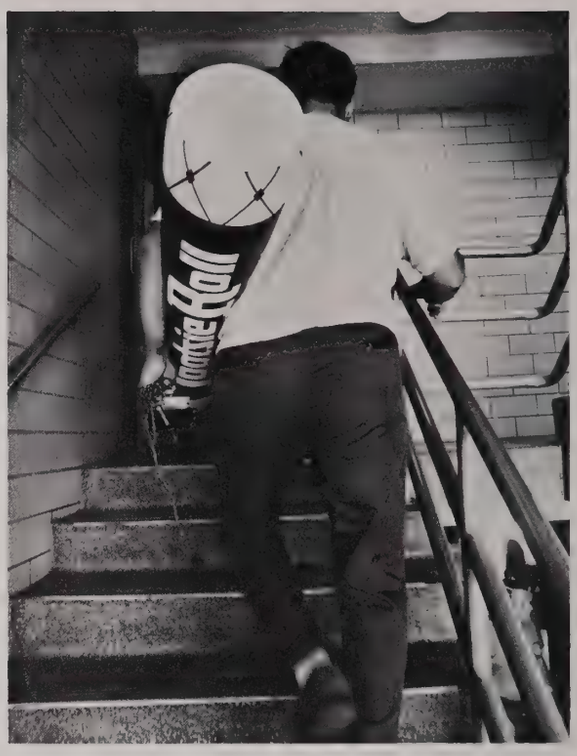
It's a hard task, packing for college—trying to decide what to take, what to leave, what you'll definitely need, what you can get by without. It's a beginning for Louisvillian Judi Phillips and an end for her father, Bud.

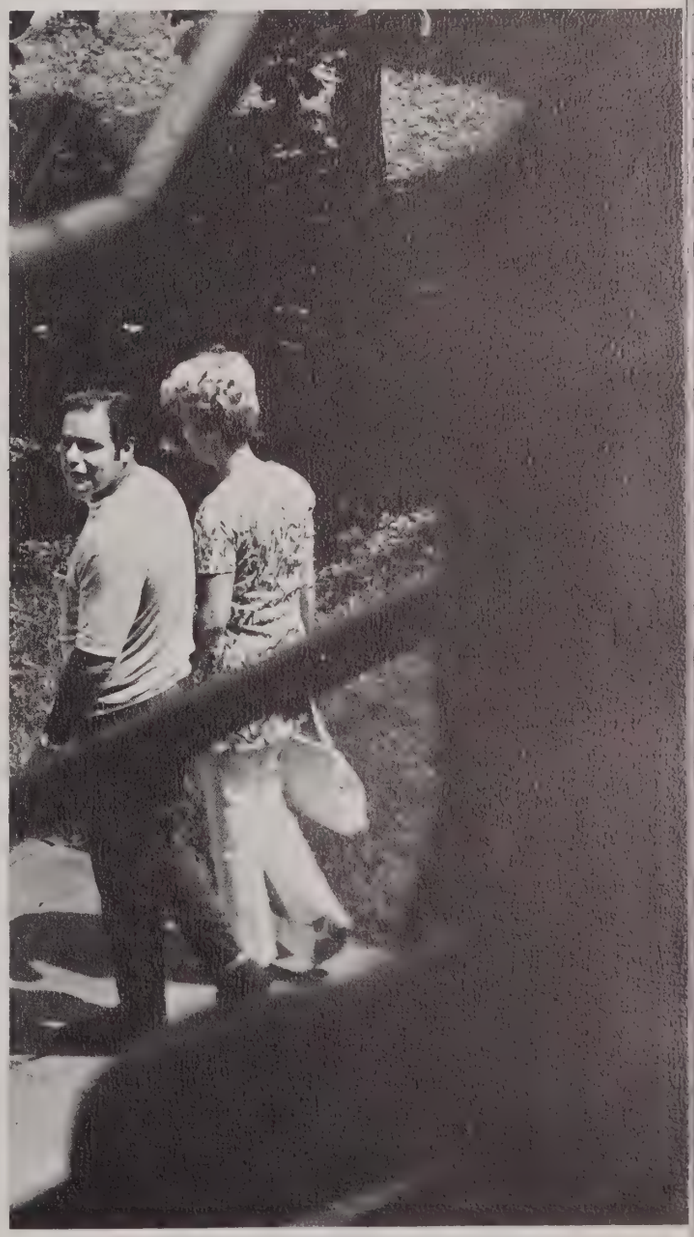


Dear ole Dad climbs up and down the steps of North Hall as many times as it takes to cart clothes, boxes, stereos, books, and other paraphernalia from the car to Judi's new home.

Buried under the load of a shaggy dog, Tootsie Roll pillow and clothes, Phillips plans his strategy for loading the family car with the ("are you sure you need all this stuff?") necessities for attending college.

To keep from having to say goodby just yet, Judi and her parents take their first look at the campus, not as visitors, but as part of the group. Phillips offers some fatherly advice, perhaps more to reassure himself than his daughter.

After a shortened summer vacation, students returned to Bowling Green anxious to begin a new year. For beginning freshmen, moving in chores and registration week were unique experiences. Some were away from home for the first time, and expectations for the year terrified many and intrigued others. For returning veterans, moving in was much less hectic.



And then comes the final moment when Phillips, with a much lighter car and a much heavier heart, gives up his little girl to the world of a university, knowing that things will never be the same as they were just a few hours ago.

Are you sure there isn't room for one more bright, intelligent, eager student in that class?

Sizable lines, frowning teachers, closed classes and numerous IBM cards—this is registration. For those who register early, it's painless; but as the hours slip by it becomes almost impossible to schedule 15 hours the way you want and still have time to lead the life of a normal human being.

The winners come and the losers go and when it's all over, 11,000 people have been transformed into numbers as they once again become a part of Western.

Run and wait, run and wait—that's how you do the Registration Two-step.

Being first in line is not necessarily a guarantee that you can avoid an 8:00 class.

EXCEDRIN HEADACHE No. 243 . . .

REGISTRATION

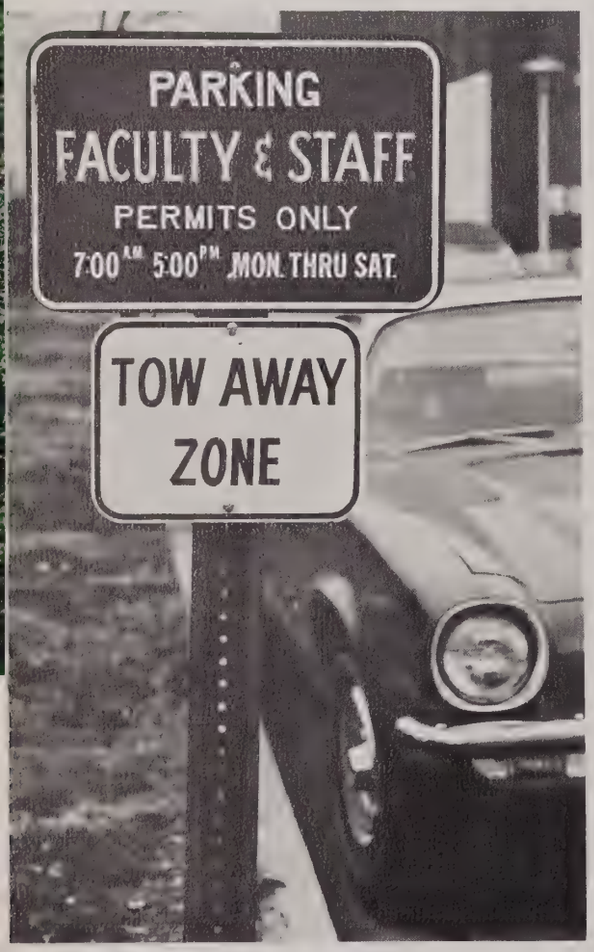
(Left) Just when you think everything is going your way, your schedule is all set to include favorite TV shows and avoid early morning classes, some guy decides to close the class you have to have. And you start all over again. (Below) Did you have the feeling that you were being followed?

You have only two things to fear while attending Western: 1. air pollution from car exhaust caused by students driving 'round and around seeking a parking space close to their classes; and 2. getting run over by one of those drivers.

With the first week of classes came the task of getting back into the swing of things. With this year came the usual parking hassle and the new problem of getting from one class to another on an expanded campus. At night the campus relaxed and the center of activity moved to the dorms.



Like a guardian angel scolding us, campus signs warn of the dangers of wrong doing.

Wandering minstrels still roam the campus in search of a friendly group to settle down with for a while and to share a few ballads.

OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR

FRANKFORT, KENTUCKY 40601

August 31, 1970

LOUIE B. NUNN
GOVERNOR

Dear Student:

As Governor and as father of two college students, let me extend a personal welcome to you in the beginning of this new academic year.

Kentuckians are proud of the responsible manner in which almost all of our students have responded to contemporary issues and problems. Our confidence in the young is reflected in the unique opportunities that have been afforded for youth participation in public affairs -- 18 year old voting; age of majority for 18 year olds; student representation on public college governing boards; student membership on state environment regulatory agencies; legislative and administrative intern programs.

However, incidents here and across the country now threaten the peoples' confidence in the young. As a result, public attention and concern will certainly be focused on the campus this fall.

Traditionally, the university has been one of the primary means for promoting human progress in an enlightened, reasoned manner. It is crucial that our institutions of higher learning continue to be equal to this challenge.

All of us must be concerned that disruptive and violent action on the campus may encourage a public and legislative backlash that could drastically affect the academic freedom we cherish. Furthermore, such a response could seriously undermine our ability to maintain the secure financial base which we have worked so hard to establish for public higher education in Kentucky.

You have a personal responsibility to make sure this does not occur. I know you will want to be among the vast majority of responsible students who are working constructively to build a better future and to make sure that our colleges and universities continue to fulfill the educational purposes for which they were established.

You have my very best wishes for a productive and enjoyable year.

Sincerely,

Louie B. Nunn

LOUIE B. NUNN
Governor

A WELCOME TO KENTUCKY?

The fall came—crisp and exciting. The air was full of tension as many realized that the time of innocence had ended.

Don't bore me
With your petty attempts
At friendship,
For I once had a dog lick my face
And a man died for me a world away
And ne'er knew my name.

—Unknown—

autumn, winter, spring, rain bottled in a giant Mason jar protected, trapped,
i float

through shattered happiness and crystalline hopes which are other people's love, envy, sorrow, hate—

these do not touch me, my jar shelters me
i'm afraid to climb out.

i peeked over the edge once,
but something scared me,
something colossal—big,
and i was so small
i scurried back afraid to feel
now i am alone.

—unknown—

BUILD MINDS—

AS WELL AS BUILDINGS

The Western of several years ago has disappeared behind a multitude of new buildings. This year the campus expanded to include the Downing University Center, the Education Complex, and a new parking structure. The Fine Arts Center, the Pearce-Ford Tower, and the Graduate Center remained under construction.

AH . . . THE WEEKEND

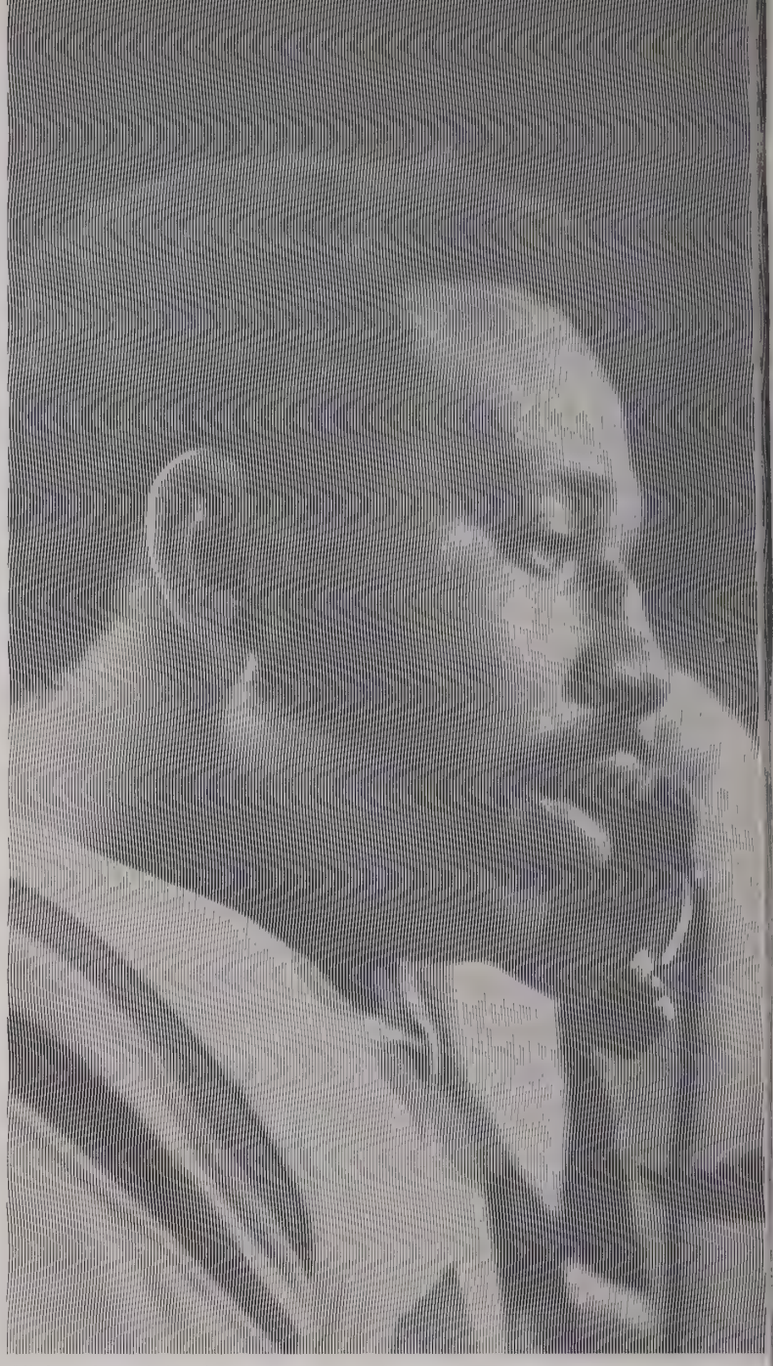
After football season, Saturday chores include washing your hair, doing the laundry, trying to straighten out a week's accumulation of debris in your room and, oh yeah, studying.

Weekends are divided among sleeping, talking, movies, eating and, finally, partying. Every student in the University has seen at least one or both of this year's movies at the Mall: "M.A.S.H." or "Getting Straight." Then, he has a tough choice—which of the five identical places to take his date for a hamburger afterward. Or they can take in a party.

For Western students, getting together with friends is a favorite form of weekend entertainment. The types of parties are as varied as the cliques one can choose to belong to—from a popcorn and television evening to an all-day beer bash or perhaps even a pot party.

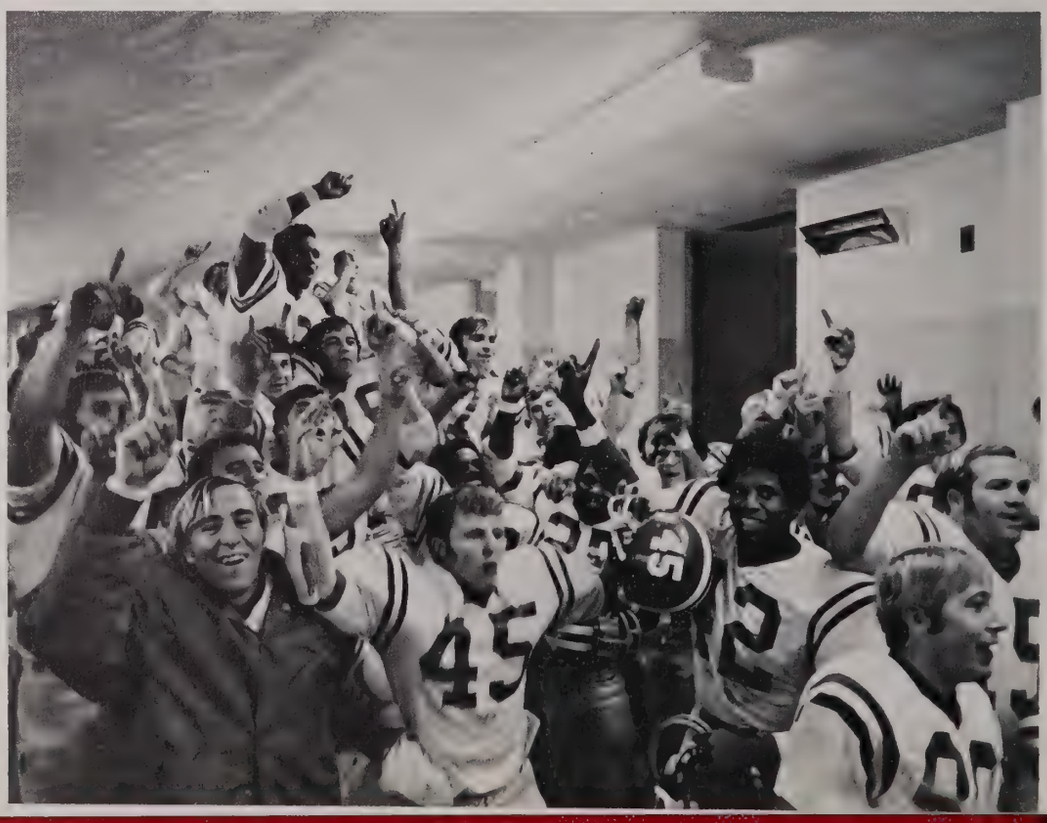
Sure you can have fun on Friday night in Bowling Green even if you don't have a car. Why, you can study in the library . . . watch television in the University center . . . write a letter home . . . mess around the dorm . . . (yawn). . . .

Wrapped like a monk, a lone player waits out the miserable afternoon on the bench.



All-American defensive end Lawrence Brame listens intently to the advice of a coach seated above the field.

Saturday afternoon football was highlighted by weekly downpours which drove away all but the most loyal fans. The team's diligence was rewarded by an unexpected OVC Championship.



Joyous warriors return home following the Murray skirmish, waving the sign of their OVC championship.

DETERMINATION, DEDICATION REWARDED

Neither rain nor snow nor dark of night can deter a Western fan during the fight, fight, fight.

Did that big bully stomp on your itty, bitty finger?

Western's own version of the Big Mouth.

COLOR & PAGEANTRY—HOMECOMING 1970

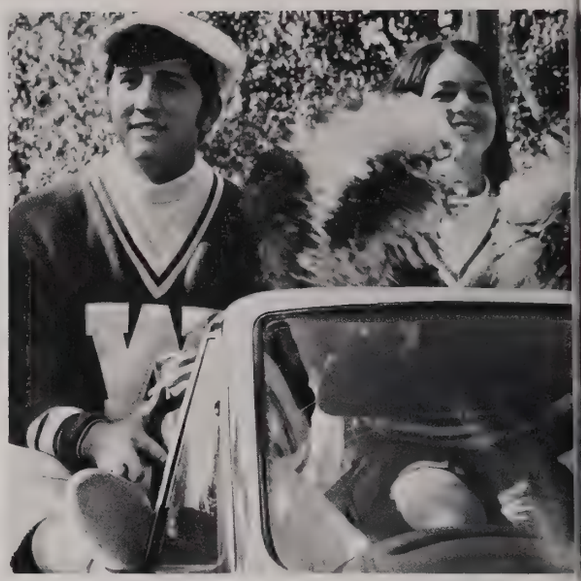
Strutting Silver Girls, blaring brass, shrill flutes, and rows of high hats and unjforms signal the beginning of a Homecoming parade.



Nothing generates more excitement than a pretty face.

A pretty miss prepares for take-off on one of the colorful Homecoming floats.

Sorority sisters work long hours to twist the paper stuffings for their entry in the Homecoming parade.

Homecoming Day culminated a week of hectic preparation. Study was abandoned for work on floats and house decorations. Besides the parade and ball game, activities included a performance of the Broadway musical "1776," a concert by Pacific Gas and Electric, and the opening of the Downing University Center.

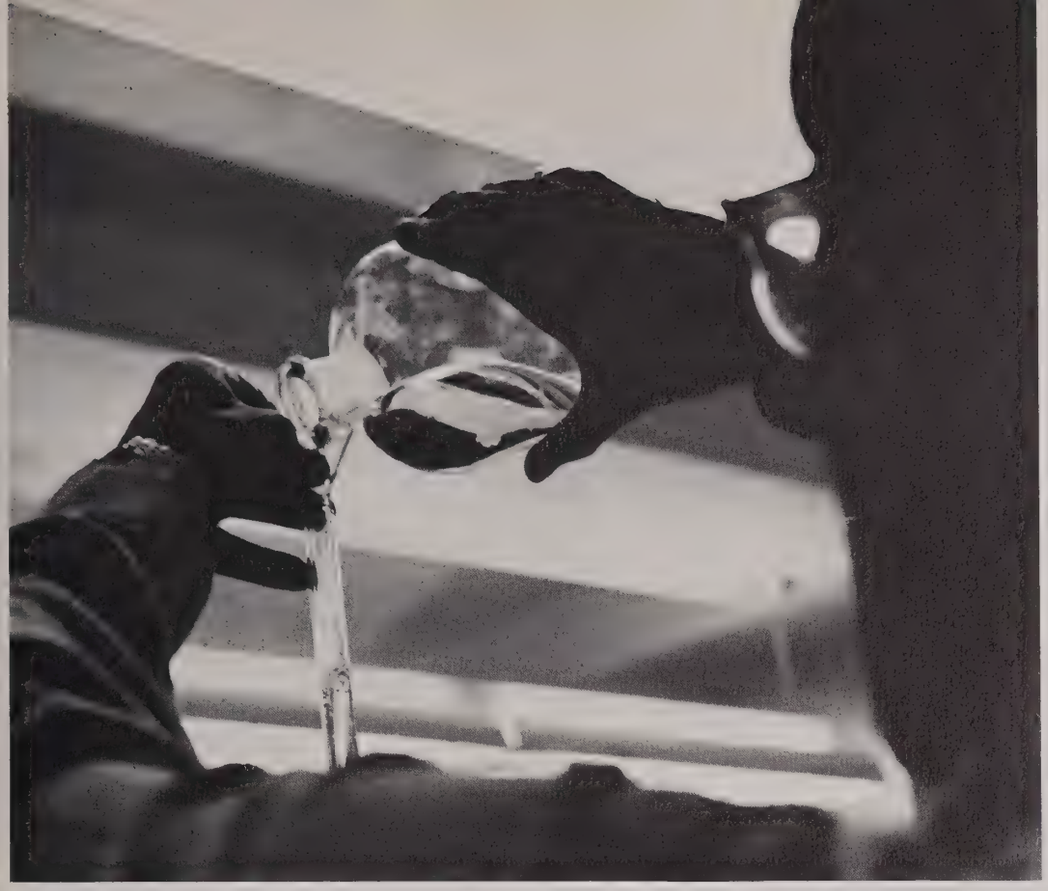
Dorm dwellers, curlers and all, rise early Saturday morning to get their decorations out before the judges arrive. Many silent prayers are said that the dew or rain won't wilt the paper napkins and the wind won't destroy the weeks of work.

Delicate fingers mold a meaningless lump of clay into a form that reflects whatever emotion the artist chooses to portray.

Inquisitive students use every means available to increase their knowledge of the world around them.

Nobody better try coming between me and the ball or I'll rap the hell out of their ankles!

CONCENTRATION, CREATIVITY HELP STUDENTS MASTER CLASSROOM CHALLENGES



Classes consume more time than any other aspect of the student's life. Ranging from seminars to lectures, the curricula offer various means of creative expression.

The study of chemistry may expand one's mind but I'm always afraid I'll mix the wrong chemicals together and blow up Thompson Complex.

An empty stairwell gives two students the time and place to pause and reflect about what they think, who they are.

At times "learning by doing" becomes a sparkling experience.

Nothing can surpass the beauty and grace of the human body in a precision gymnastic exercise.

Some students find physical education activity classes are a ball . . . for others they're a little bit overwhelming.

Industrial art students take the time and patience to learn that their work is more than hammering and sawing; it can also be a delicate, creative, hand-carved art form.

Lab work is an essential and practical part of most science classes because it offers students a chance for experiments and observations unknown to a lecture or textbook.

APPLYING CLASSROOM THEORY GIVES EDUCATION RELEVANCE

The feelings of the artist reflect in his work and become a lasting monument—announcing to the world that a man lived and created.

Not all college learning comes from textbooks as the world outside the University becomes more and more mechanized.

(Left) While physical education isn't the course involved, sometimes it takes a little body English to get things the way you want them. (Above) It doesn't matter how complex the equipment, the basic element will always be human hands carefully reproducing what the human mind has visualized.

The classes seemed endless. Sometimes they were fun but more often you slept through them, or took a few notes to be flipped through in spare moments while your mind was on the night before at the Pizza Hut or tonight at the movie in the Center Theatre. It reached the point where you would think of a thousand things—anything to keep your mind off classes.

CONCERTS CATER TO VARIED TASTES

(Right) The unique sound of the sitar captivated the audience that attended a concert by Ravi Shankar. (Below) The writing of the Declaration of Independence was portrayed through the wit and music of the cast of "1776."

The success of any concert is measured best by the expressions of the audience.

The ever-popular Temptations kept a packed house hypnotized by their Motown sound.

(Left) The sight of a frisbee gliding across the Arena was an essential part of every concert and it was often more entertaining than the concert itself. (Above) Utilities stocks went down as Pacific Gas and Electric "turned on" very few when they appeared as part of Homecoming weekend.

Concerts on campus this year covered a wide range of musical interests. The Ides of March and Pacific Gas and Electric were presented for acid rock lovers, while soul fans "jived" with the Temptations. Ravi Shankar presented a concert of Eastern classical music and the Broadway musical "1776" was presented as part of the Homecoming activities. In the spring Neil Diamond and the Trinidad—Tripoli Steel Band entertained on campus.

YOUNG ACTORS PRODUCE OUTSTANDING SEASON

The drama department this season contributed to the cultural life of the student in its usual fine style. In addition to several Experimental Theatre plays presented in Theatre 100, the department produced "Twelfth Night," "The Importance of Being Earnest," "Servant of Two Masters" and "The Visit."

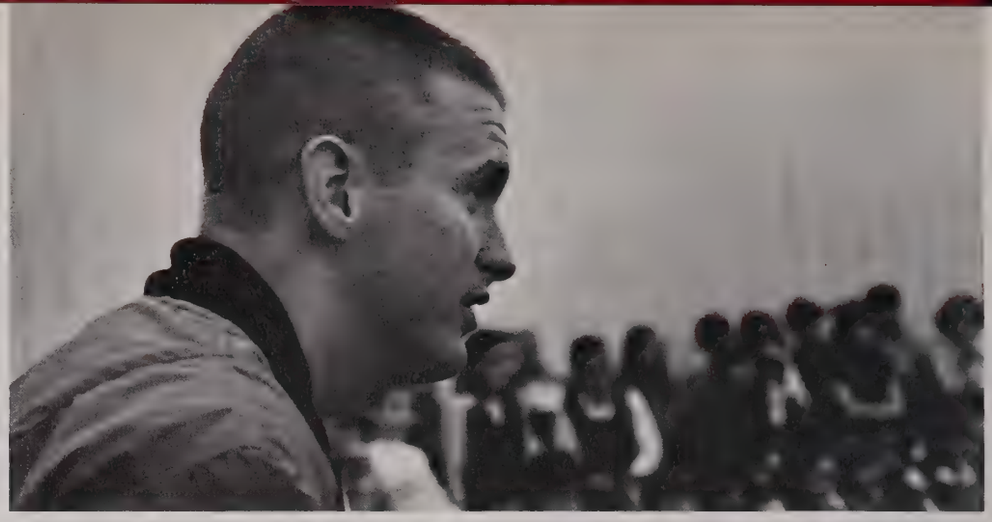
The Gilbert and Sullivan operetta "H.M.S. Pinafore," a joint production with the music department, was the highlight of the theater season.

(Right) A touch of make-up and a funny hat can turn an actor into anyone he wants to be. That's part of the magic of the stage. (Below) Stagecraft classes get firsthand experience by doing their share of the manual labor involved in building whatever scenery the play calls for.

(Left) Becoming an actor involves learning all the theater world can teach—from lessons in being a star to the proper application of make-up. (Below) A comically prim, proper and unreal world full of paradox and absurdity was the highlight of Western's production of "The Importance of Being Earnest," by Oscar Wilde.

The England of William Shakespeare invaded Van Meter in the form of the comedy "Twelfth Night," which provided the drama student with the challenge of archaic language and difficult accents.

Dr. Anthony England, scientist-astronaut



This school year marked a great improvement in the University speakers policy. The University Lecture Series included Roosevelt Grier on Oct. 20, Athelstan Spilhaus, Dr. Anthony W. England, Lamont C. Cole, and David Brinkley on March 2. The Associated Students brought more controversial speakers such as Dick Gregory on Nov. 12, Julian Bond on Dec. 13, and scheduled William Kunstler, Bernadette Devlin and Dr. S. I. Hayakawa in the spring.

Every college student quickly learns the art of taking a nap wherever the opportunity arises.

Staying alone.

—Rod McKuen

Many students find a talk with friends the most satisfying form of relaxation.

TAKE FIVE . . .

A leisurely, challenging game of chess offers the chance to match wits with others outside the classroom.

At times the only way to cope with a big test is by taking a nap and forgetting it.

The winter came—clear, invigorating and festive . . .

The days were full of uniformity as many strove toward goals which determined their future.

With the snow came boots, mittens and mufflers as students prepared for weeks of treacherous footing. The snow provided a natural setting for recreation and there was always plenty of hot chocolate available, making everyone happy except the "suit-casers" who couldn't make it home for the weekend.

College students never seem to grow up when it comes to a deep snow, as they spend free time building snowmen and pause between classes for a quick snowball fight.

Whoever said "necessity is the mother of invention" must have been a Western student who had seen the cardboard, metal signs and garbage can-lid sleds that race down campus hills after a snowstorm.

Love is. . . . sharing a hot mug of coffee on a winter's day with someone special.

When white snow blankets the Hill, walking becomes both a slip-and-slide affair and a travel through a wonderland of frosty trees and brittle grass.

TALENTED TOPPERS GAIN NATIONAL RECOGNITION

Screaming, hollering, stomping, cheering fans provide noisy support for the battling Hilltoppers.

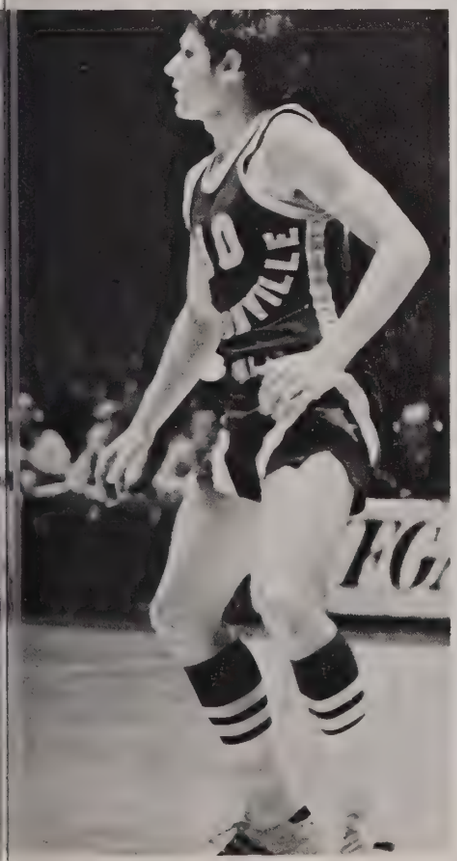
Basketball is synonymous with Western. To the student it is Monday and Saturday nights in a packed arena watching one of the best teams in Western's history. To the team it is the result of months of practice often taken for granted by even the most ardent fan.

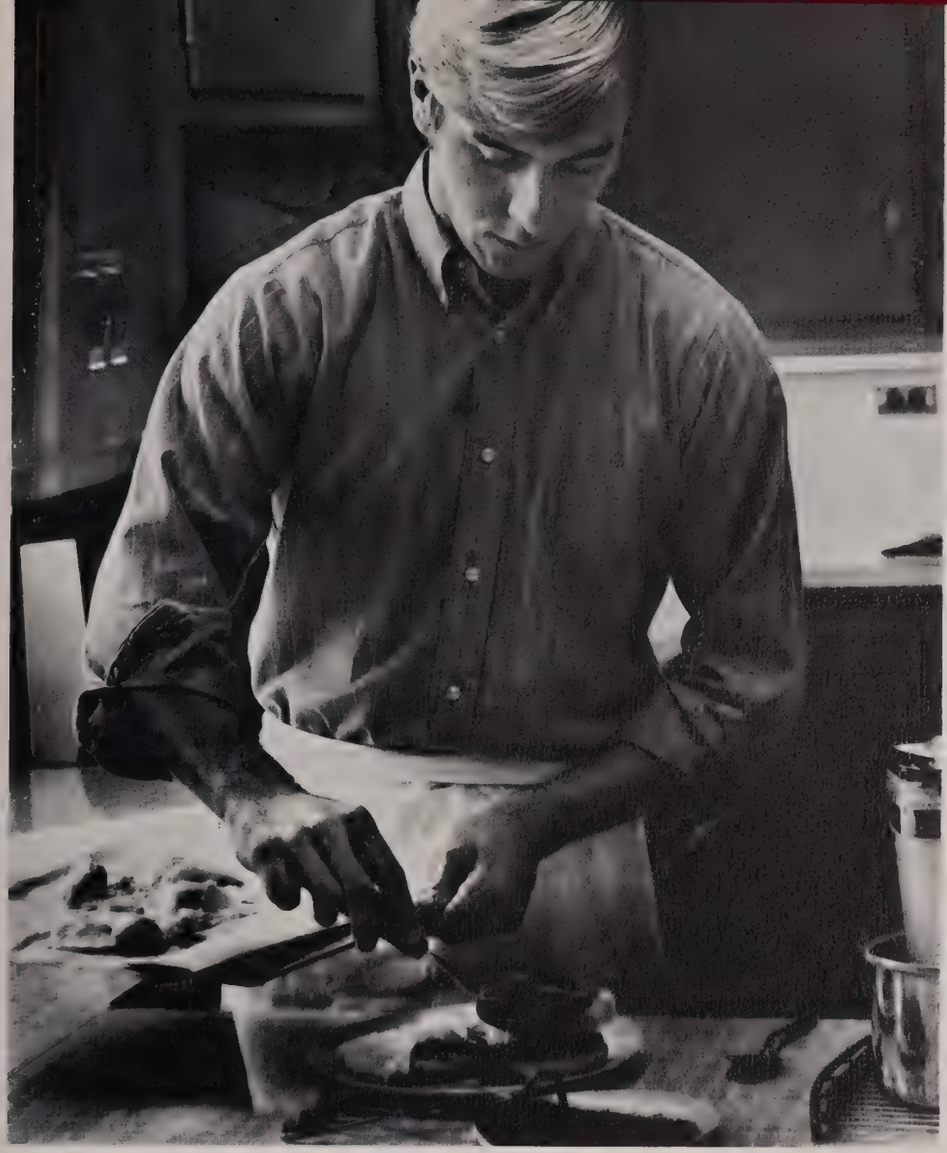
One thing about the Toppers is they play as a team. This means that when you pick on Big Mac you're likely to have to tangle with Gary Sundmacker also.



That split second between the end of one play and the start of another when all eyes rivet on the basket.

Mad dashes for the phone show what an essential part social life plays in the life of a coed.

BASIC NEEDS FOR SHELTER MET BY STUDENT HOUSING



Living in an apartment furnishes knowledge not available in the classroom—how to survive for four years on bologna sandwiches and eggs.

Housing at Western ranges from dormitories and fraternity houses, with their constant noise and lack of privacy, to often dingy apartments which offer privacy, good food and no hours as consolation. This year several rules governing women's dorm hours were lifted in a push to abolish hours altogether. In January, the University approved married student housing, thus bringing hope of relief for this long-existing problem.

COLLEGE: THAT NEVER-ENDING STUDY HALL

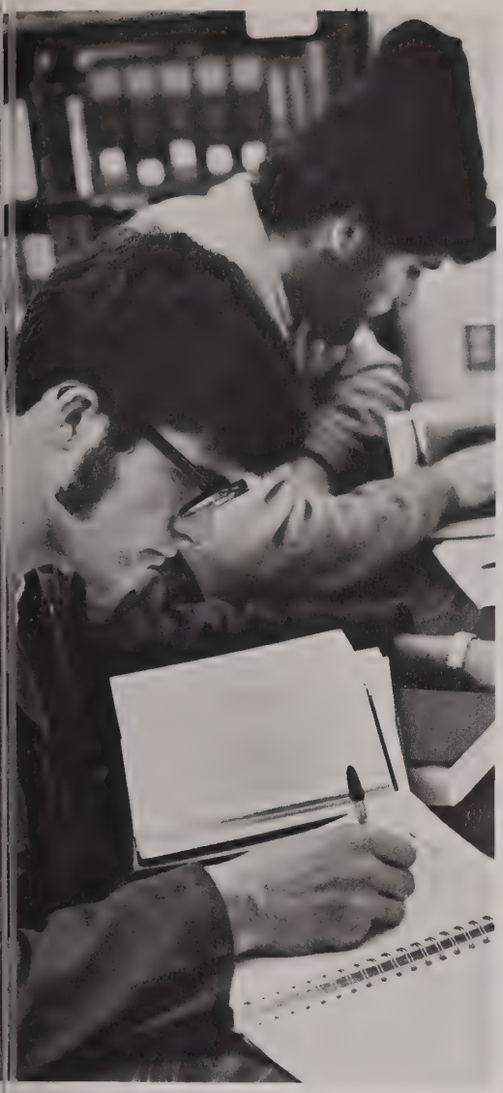
There just wasn't enough time for the tedious occupation of being a student, especially at the end of the semester when the work began to catch up with you.

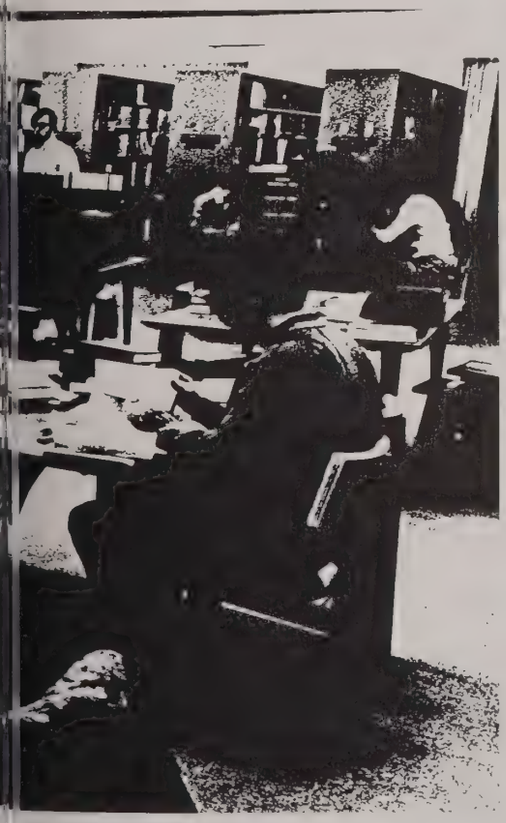
It's a shame that knowledge can't be absorbed through the skull while the head is rested on a book. But diligent students keep trying to disprove that theory.

As finals approach, students spend more time in the library in an attempt to catch up three months of class work in two weeks.



As others whiled the time away, you were busy getting that last chapter read. It's 2:25 a.m. . . . Then onto another neglected course. It's all a dreary cycle.

Getting to the root of learning sometimes requires a seat on the floor.



Undertaking a foreign language means spending time in the language lab, where eyes and ears become familiar with the sight and sound of the language.

The spring came—fresh, encouraging, vibrative.
This was the renewal of life as many anxiously anticipated a new beginning.

The first warm days of spring are the ones students hope for and fear. Spring means the end to boots, coats and wool clothing, the approach of another summer and thoughts of graduation, and at the same time finals, spring fever and losing friends.

How like a cat it is to enjoy sitting with the warm, fresh sun on your back and a light, playful breeze on your face.

Thoughts of the summer blossom like the crocus and daffodils, and coeds begin worrying about how they'll look on the beach. So they flock to the altar of the salad bar.

SPRING FEVER TAKES TOLL, BUT STUDENTS AREN'T SORRY

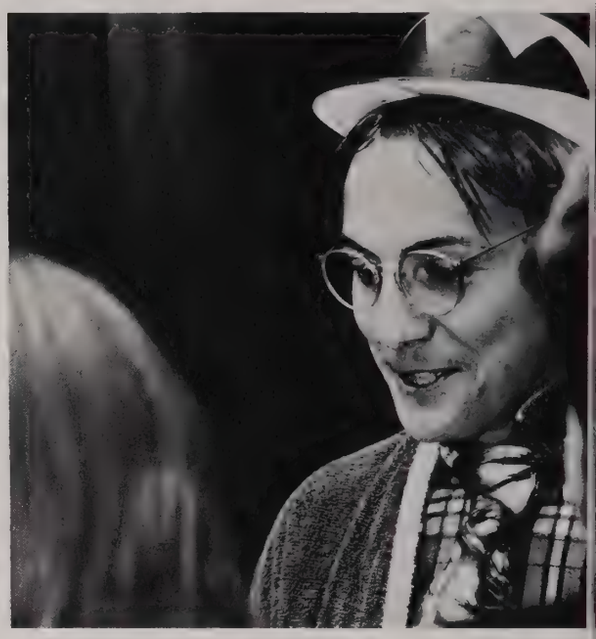
While it may not be Florida, the campus lawns provide sunny spots to capture the first tints of a tan and looks from male passers-by.

Class attendance dropped, students postponed their studying and some quenched their thirst in local bars. Coeds shed their unwanted apparel while males took a longer look. Windows opened and spring fever took its toll.

Like the first robin of the year, spring sees the annual return of the bicycle to its resting place beside a building, patiently awaiting its master's return.

The original Western bandwagon—filled with music students, naturally.

To belong to something is as vital a part of college life as study itself . . . involvement is a necessary part of learning.



Involvement takes many shapes and forms. For some the pool tables at the University center provide an opportunity to meet and get to know other kinds of people on a one-to-one basis.

INVOLVEMENT . . .

BYWORD OF THE SEVENTIES

You have not converted a man because you have silenced him.

Student involvement has become of major importance in recent years. The world has become so small that the student can no longer spend four years in an isolated college community. Therefore involvement has become as much a part of college life as the classroom itself.

Both the conservative and liberal-minded thinker are able to voice their opinions on pertinent issues through various types of involvement. Interest in campus activities sets students' values, which are then applied in the worldwide situations.

Students across the nation have joined in an almost unanimous protest of the war in Indochina and of administrations that muzzle the student voice in university affairs.

Doing what you want and yet working with others toward a common goal—that's involvement too.

ALL WE ASK IS WHY-

WAR,

POLLUTION,

DISCRIMINATION

STILL EXIST.

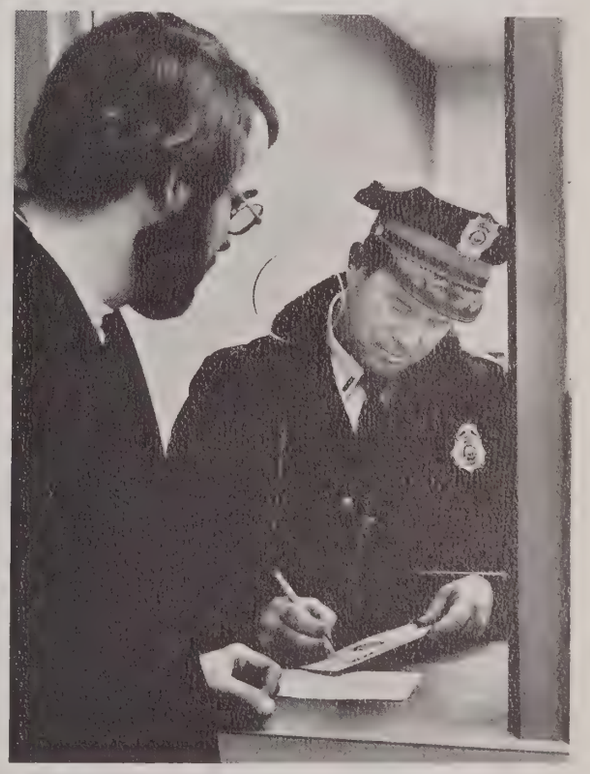
Grass, goofballs, speed, sugar cubes, booze, beauties, dolls, bananas. I am a dreamer, I face reality. I exist . . . I know not where I see the wind, but I don't feel it. Nothing concerns me . . . beyond death.

Students now question the long-existent values of our society. Emphasis has been placed on peace, ecology and equality as young people strive to overcome the materialistic values of the past.

In quest of these ideals, some youths everywhere have turned to mind-expanding drugs, somehow hoping to heighten their capacity to understand reality. Others turn to booze as a means of escaping. Then there are those who just go to class and then home on weekends.



Law enforcement officer—the man in the middle.

While some students protest ROTC, others find it a meaningful way to express their love for their country.

A brave man—he who doesn't carry an umbrella everyday at Western.

You wake up one morning and suddenly realize winter has disappeared behind the sun and left in its place the spring monsoon.

But life goes on despite the rain with only a few minor adaptations to the conditions.

"I hear the drizzle of the rain . . . like a memory it falls . . . soft and warm continuing . . . tapping on my roof and walls. . . ."

—Simon and Garfunkel.

" . . . and the windows of heaven were opened. And the rain was upon the earth forty days and forty nights."

—Genesis 7:11-12.

Silly costumes and make-up add to the excitement and fun of the Sigma Chi Derby.

Pikes present "Birdstock," showing a bird's view of pollution, in November Nonsense.

GREEKS STRIVE FOR UNITY, RECOGNITION, CAMPUS AND COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT

Greek organizations have long been identified with involvement on campus. They participate in all areas—student government, sports, clubs, service.

Strongly organized, the Greeks are able to provide entertainment for themselves in the form of the Sigma Chi Derby, Greek Week and other related events. Their interests carry beyond the campus by participation in other charity work.

Intramural sports between the Greeks provide good-natured competition and a full activity schedule during the year.

I'm all for brotherhood, but this is ridiculous.

Winning means a lot to Greeks so they give all they have during the rush of Greek Week. The feeling carries through all their activities.

(Above) Caroling parties are a means of getting together, as well as generating the Christmas spirit and then spreading it to others. (Right) November Nonsense offers sorority "hams" a moment of glory on the stage, as well as honors for the group.

Not even a rain shower can dampen the enthusiasm of students enjoying the thrill of a chase and capture in a slippery field during Greek Week events.

BEWARE OF GREEKS BEARING GIFTS

DO'S AND DON'TS FOR TALKING TO RUSHEES;

TRY NOT TO ASK:

1. How do you like Western?
2. Are you getting settled in the dorm?
3. What's your major?

ASK:

1. What did you do this summer?
2. Are you interested in (cars, sports, fashion, etc.)?
3. Do you have any questions about Greeks? If a rushee is a real loser, ask him the top questions. You can get rid of him but he will think you are good guys later.

GENERAL:

1. Try to be a lady or a gentleman at all times. A lot of rushees are sheltered and would be grossed out by your everyday behavior.
2. You can talk to each other all year long. Talk to the rushees.
3. Be nice to the losers. They might be legacies or they might have a sharp roommate to influence.
4. DON'T EVER SAY: "COME BACK TO SEE US."

Everyone had fun at the Sigma Chi Derby—except maybe the Sigma Chis.

When the supply of forks ran out, it was "every man for himself" at the ADPi Ice Cream Social.

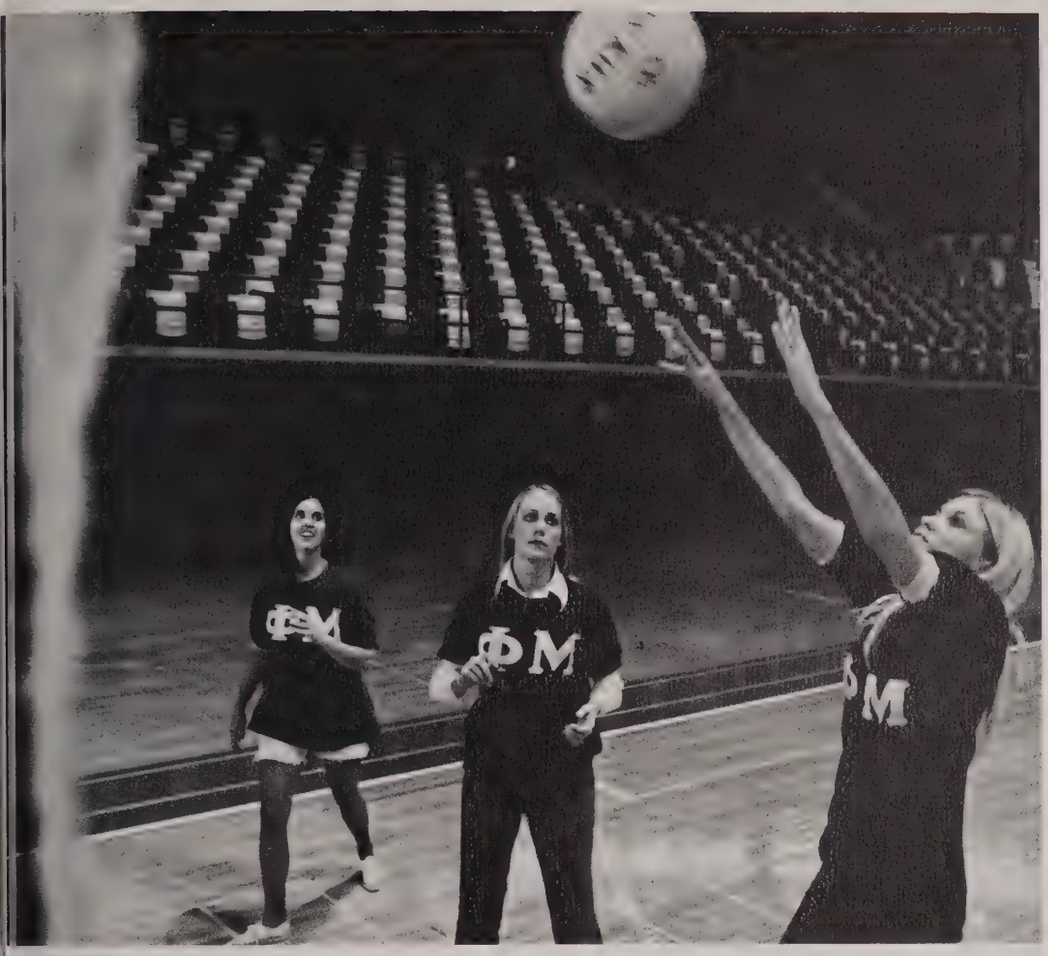
A last-minute consultation sets the strategy for winning the big event.

THE GREEK SYSTEM: RIGHT OR WRONG . . . ?

Pledges enjoy the Homecoming parade while escorting their sorority's float and queen candidate.

An essential part of sorority spirit is cheering for sisters involved in various contests.

Agility, spirit and a sense of humor are essential for living through annual Derby Day activities as the sororities compete for top honors.



Intramurals are one of the many ways that sororities find to match their skills against others.

The Greek system has been the subject of much criticism recently. It has been said that Greek life breeds conformity and discrimination. These criticisms have strong foundation but it is so easy to stereotype a group with which one has never been associated.

Like any system, the Greeks have both good and bad points. One can be a member of a Greek organization and be himself also—today more than ever before. There is great potential in the Greek system but everyone must recognize the need for reform.

Calm nerves and steady teeth were tested in one of the many Derby Day contests.

STUDENTS STRUGGLE TO SUCCEED

Many hours of thought and concentration are spent on art projects for they are an outward expression of the artist's personality.

Remember years ago when books were beautiful and learning exciting? And now—tears. You push on to exhaustion because there aren't enough hours to be a student and a person too.

For seniors, graduation means the possibility of new jobs and greater responsibility. For them, it marks an end, or rather a beginning because the end of the year is really the beginning of the summer.

Preserve your memories;

They're all that's left to you.

It's an endless cycle of keeping yourself
together
for four years

And then. . . .?

PROFILES

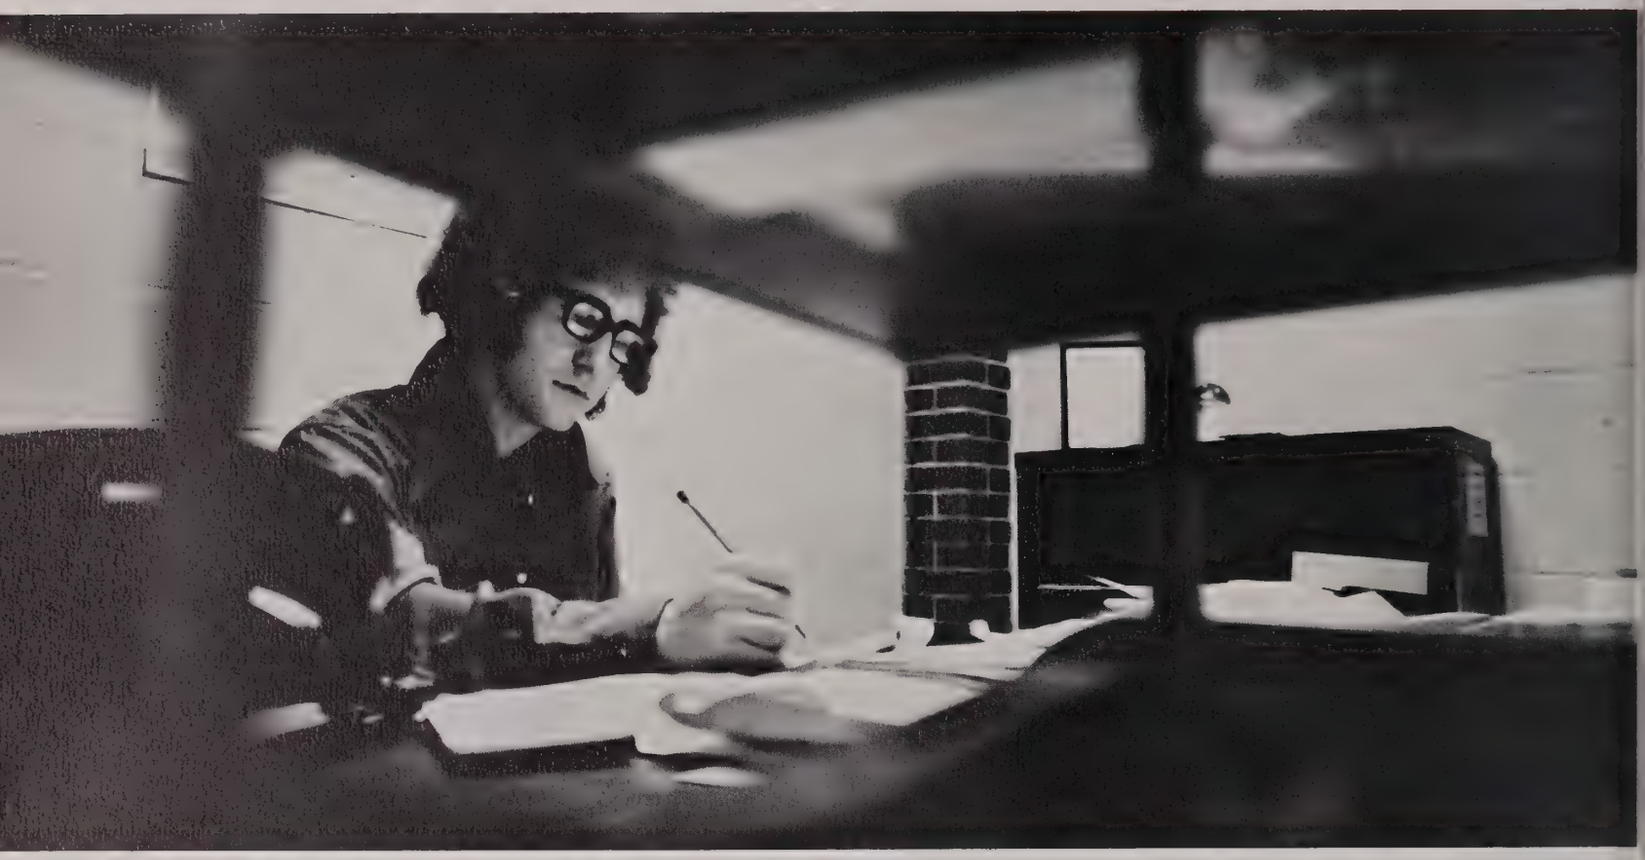
JOHN LYNE: Associated Students' president



John Lyne will remember 1970-71 as a good school year "because the number and variety of experiences I've had this year have been invaluable. And I guess I'm happiest when I'm the busiest."

In the precarious position as president of Associated Students he has had to face administrators, students and townspeople who often disagreed with him. He recalls that his term in office "started with a bang" when he as president-elect was involved in meetings with the Volunteers and President Dero Downing.

On the subject of student government, Lyne believed the A.S. has made some progress "but we've been frustrated in making any major steps because of the unwillingness of the administration to grant Associated Students authority.

"I'm impressed by the caliber of people attracted to student government offices. I think there are two steps in making significant progress. One is getting active people in student government and two is to be allowed to make some progress by the administration. If they can come together simultaneously, I don't know. . . . "

Looking back over his years at Western, John feels one highlight was his work on the debate team. The two tournaments he recalls most vividly are the April 1969 meet at New York University, where Western tied for first place ahead of 88 schools, and the February 1969 meet at Columbia University, where he won the third place speaker's award.

Another high point was his 1969-70 column in the College Heights Herald, "Lyne-up." "I really enjoyed that. It's easier to communicate as a columnist than as A.S. president sometimes because you have a chance to look at things deeper."

One of his most rewarding endeavors was debating. It was "learning by doing," Lyne says. "Although at times you get wrapped up in the artificiality, the experience of being able to defend a position, to learn to talk on your feet, is important. It makes you realize there are two sides to every story . . . makes you less gullible. Debating teaches you that you can't be satisfied with any one side of a story . . . you've got to dig beneath."

Lyne said he doesn't feel that most students are against him. "I know I'm sometimes in the minority, but of the students that are most concerned about things, I think I'm in the majority. I don't subscribe to the 'silent majority theory' because when people don't vocalize, you can't guess what they're thinking. The fact that I was elected and that Congress has backed me on things I consider important proves something."

Turning to criticism directed at the type of speakers Lyne's administration has sponsored, the president observes that "the only negative feedback . . . came from non-students. Oh, we got a few crank letters and several editorials in the Park City (Daily News) but frankly I expected it and it doesn't bother me.

"I've gotten a great perspective about Western from this job. I've served on the Board of Regents, the Academic Council; I've had dealings with the president and the dean of student affairs a great many times, and I've served on a lot of special University committees. And I've been able to get a perspective available to very few people."

Evaluating his administration, he feels that the A.S. got a lot of things started, but he fears they will not be allowed to follow through on them because of the administration. "Prospects don't look bright," he said. "I wonder sometimes if any amount of effort on my part will make a difference."

After graduation Lyne hopes to enter graduate school if his low draft lottery number doesn't lead to a military call-up. "If it does I'm going to apply for conscientious objector status and just hope," he said. Ironically, John was Kentucky's representative at the first draft lottery drawing in December, 1969 in Washington, D.C., and flashed the peace sign every time he drew a number. He plans to study either philosophy or communications—"anything combining those two is appealing." Eventually he would like to become a college professor because "I like the academic community."

Although John has been the target of some who oppose his ideas, he says, "I like Western and I just want to make the school better."

JIM McDANIELS:
Basketball All-American

Next year when the Western Hilltopper basketball team pours onto the floor of Diddle Arena and goes through the motions of pre-game warm ups, something will be missing. It just won't be the same without Jim McDaniels.

Big Mac, as he is known to everyone, has become almost a legend at Western. The towering 7-foot athlete devoted himself whole-heartedly to basketball during his four years at Western. He was a credit to the university and contributing factor to Western's superior athletic department.

But now Big Mac is ready to start his post-college career. "I don't particularly want to coach because I think I can help more people in social work," the All-American said. "In sports you only keep the 'cream of the crop' to work with. I want to help the one who needs it most. Besides, coaching would get on my nerves. I would want to win all the games and I'd put too much emphasis on winning.

"Playing ball at Western was a real experience. Coach Oldham is a top-notch coach. He had a good relationship with the team. If one of his boys had a problem, 95 per cent of the time he put his work aside then and there and listened to it. The relationship between the boys on the team was a close one. We were a team. That's one of the main reasons for our success and for my success.

"The one major fault I find in Western's athletic department is that even though they're big-time, they won't go big-time. They need more money in the department. When traveling to games that were really far off, we should have flown but we didn't. Even taking a bus, we'd go a day late to save money on hotel rooms. For all the money the team brings in, the guys on the team should be made more comfortable.

"The Black Student Union is really a good organization, not only because it brings the black people closer together so they can make their problems known and help each other, but also because of the worthy projects they undertake. For instance, they get tickets to the ball games for the poor black students in Bowling Green. Contrary to some people's thinking, the purpose of the BSU is not to riot and burn down buildings. There are no black students on the Associated Students, and I feel there should be.

"I was asked to be public relations chairman of the BSU. If I were asked to be on the Associated Students, I would have gladly accepted. I am interested in solving the problems of the whites as well as the blacks.

Commenting on McDaniels, Coach Oldham had nothing but praise for his star center: "Mac is one of the greatest offensive players we've ever had. He has showed steady improvement from year to year. I think he will continually improve as he goes into a pro-ball career where I think he will sign for a fabulous amount of money. Mac is one of the easiest players I've ever worked with. He was easy to communicate with because he would look at both sides of the issue. All the players have looked up to him—in more ways than one."

The good black-white relationship on the team is evident in the comments made by Gary Sundmacker, alternate captain of the Toppers: "McDaniels has a tremendous competitive spirit. He's not as concerned with his individual accomplishment as much as that of the team's. Publicity has not gone to his head. He's not at all prejudiced about race. In fact, it's kind of hard to find any faults with him."

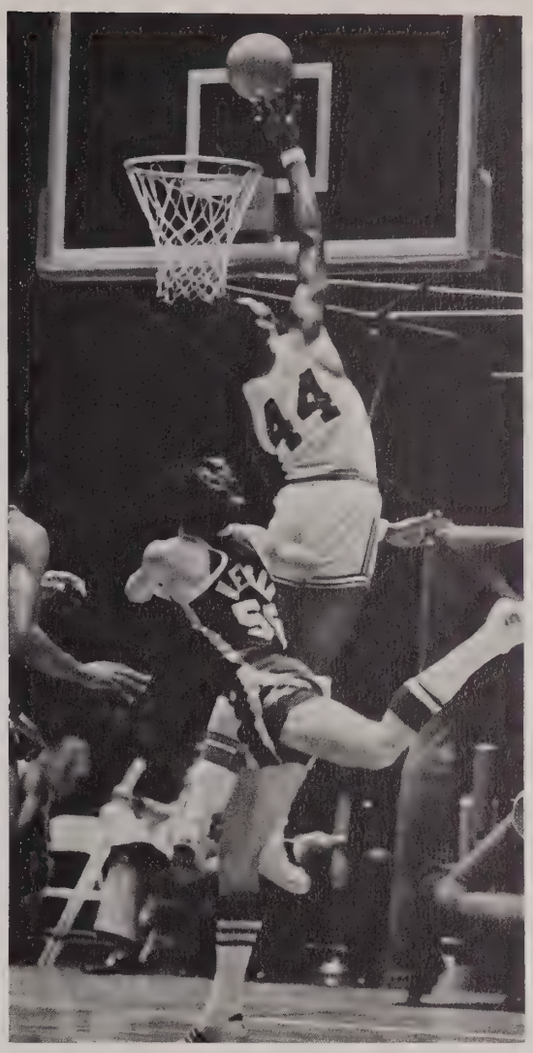
Discussing McDaniels early in the season, Jerome Perry, a personal friend of Mac's remarked, "McDaniels is a tremendous help to the team. Nowadays you have to have a big man with consistency to have a championship game. Mac fits this requirement very well. He has a lot of potential. He doesn't fully exercise his ability. But Mac takes a lot of pressure off the team. They would have to work much harder on rebounding, and so forth without him."

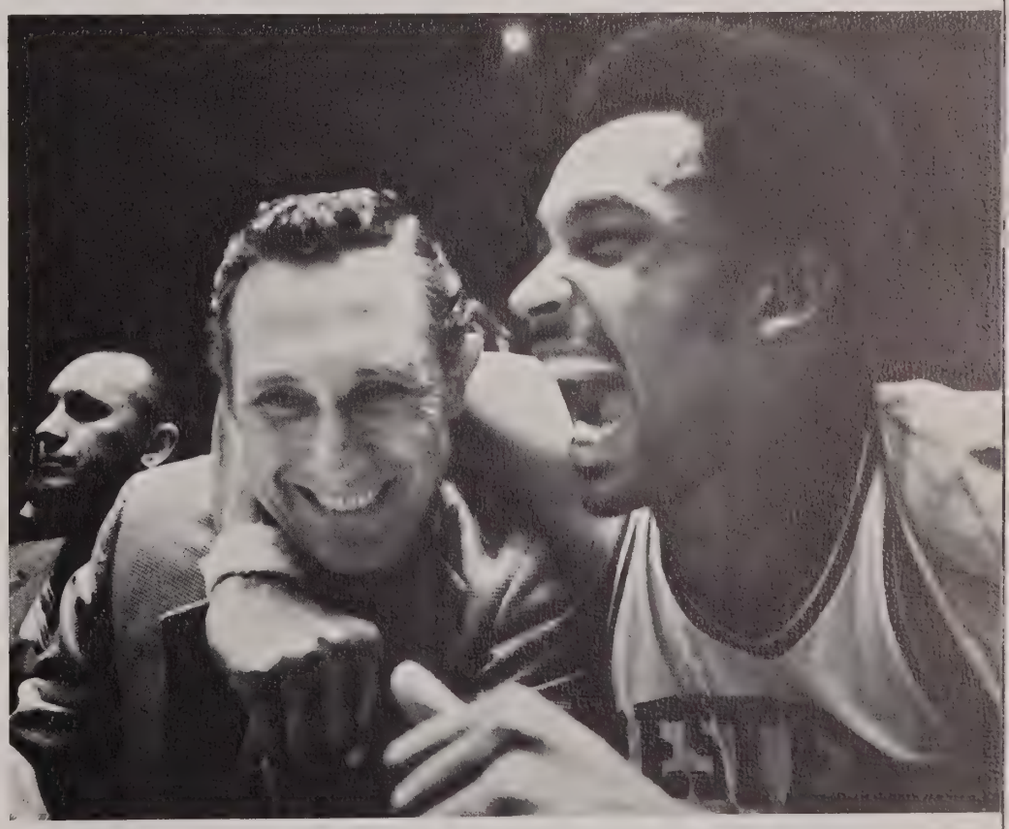
More on the personal side, Perry commented, "Even if Mac weren't a basketball player, he would still be successful in life because he has the necessary initiative. I think publicity has had a very good effect on him. It has served as a strong motivation for Mac to prove himself to be what he is and what he has been publicized to be. Mac has tremendous coordination to be so big. You should see him dance.

"Mac is a very compassionate person. He had a hard beginning. Now he has a desire to help other people."

Professional basketball is Jim McDaniel's immediate goal, along with social work, and he plans eventually to become a sociology teacher. McDaniels is a man intensely interested in just about all that's going on around him. As he says, "I like to talk about basketball, but I'd rather talk about people. There's more to life than basketball. I want to go into social work and work with kids—all kids, black and white. I want to go where I'm needed most and do what I can."

And, considering that Big Mac's dream at one time was to be 6'-4, he should be very successful.





During McDaniels' four years at Western, he and Coach John Oldham formed a close relationship based on hard work and success.

JIM WARFORD: Talented actor

Warford found a way to combine two of his favorite pastimes as he played the part of the musical jester in "Twelfth Night."

"The theater should be important to more than one department and one certain group of people on campus because great plays and great dramatic literature encompass almost every aspect of the human situation."

So said senior Jim Warford, one of the top campus actors during his years here. He went on to say the theater is an important part of campus life because everyone can find some point in it with which to identify.

"Theater is a great cooperative effort. Being involved in major productions is a great educational experience in dealing with other people. We all learn through people."

Students gain experience by getting involved in productions and in return the plays contribute to the over-all cultural environment of the university, Warford feels.

His fellow actors and faculty directors admire Jim for his attitude toward campus productions. As one student put it: "Jim is really easy to work with. He has a highly professional attitude toward the theater, which few people in the theater department have."

"Jim is a leader," began one of the directors who worked with him. "In his career here he has entertained many people by creating a number of roles. His interest in the theater probably has had a great deal of influence on other cast members—how they work, the degree of intensity, whether for good or for bad."

Off-stage Jim is known for his interest in people and all aspects of the University. For example, when he had to direct a studio production for a class project, he selected a play with an all-black cast in an attempt to give black students a greater opportunity to participate in dramatics.

"Jim cares. Like he was involved in the demonstrations, including the October moratorium in 1969 and the May 1970 protest, because he cared. And now since he started student teaching he's shown a real interest in the way education is run," said one of Jim's friends.

The hand-in-hand relationship of education and theater is an important concept to the Louisville native. He believes there is a great deal more freedom in doing experimental plays and great classical dramas in the school theater than in professional theater, because one doesn't have to worry about flopping at the box office. He also believes commercial theater and pandering to the television audience are unsatisfying. "Jim isn't concerned with stardom," said a close friend. "Educational theater is where it's at for him and that's something very rare."

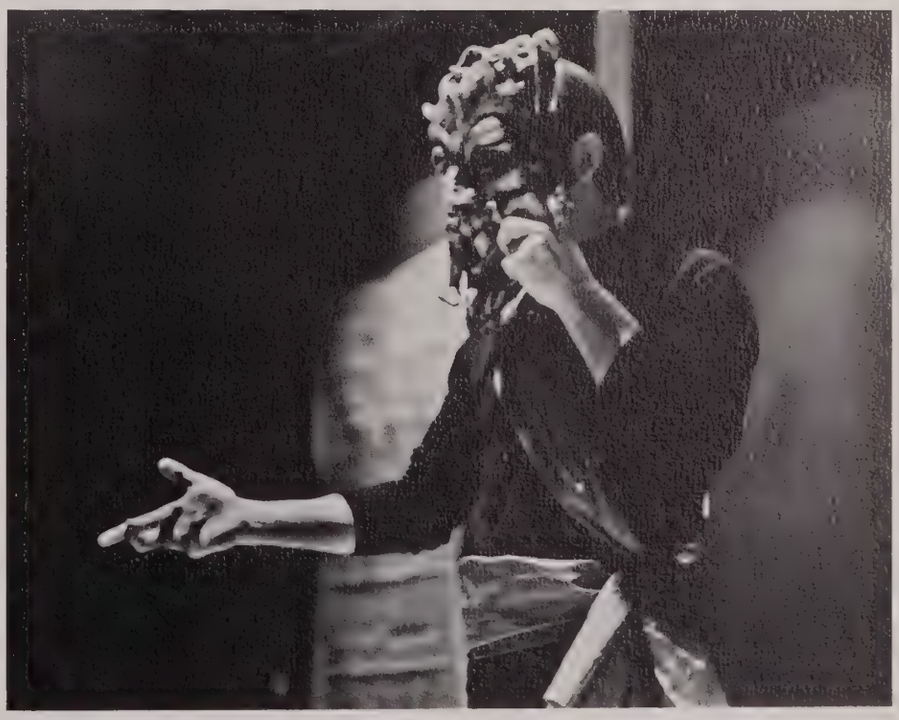
Praise for Jim Warford comes from all sides. "Most kids look up to Jim and admire him," one student said. "They have to—there's nothing else they could do. There's so much about Jim; he's so all-around talented."

"He's a very deep and intelligent person. He has talent running out of his ears. Any role you put him in, he does well," commented another.

The senior speech and theater major is one of the most-sought after actors both for studio productions and for major campus plays. Others outside the speech and theater department are well aware of his ability—one of the many reasons he was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

The slight, bespectacled actor said two of his favorite roles were Nickles in "J. B.," the opening play in Gordon Wilson Hall's Theatre 100, and the tramp in Harold Pintar's "The Caretaker."

Jim's world is the stage and its influence on the university community. "It should be a major cultural activity on campus," he explained.



One of Warford's favorite roles was the Devil in "J.B.," the play chosen to inaugurate Theatre 100 in Gordon Wilson Hall.

SUE LAUSTEN: Expert marksman

"Outside of being able to shoot well, there is no difference between her and any other girl," says the captain of Western's rifle team. This is just the way Sue Lausten wants it. She is determined to maintain her femininity while competing in the predominantly masculine sport of shooting. Asked how it feels to be the only girl on the team, Sue remarked, "It's different."

While the rifle range is a long way from the kitchen, Sue doesn't think of herself as being liberated. "I've never looked upon my membership on the team as a personal triumph," Sue said. "I can go along with a lot of aspects of Women's Lib. I can agree with certain principles, such as equal pay for equal jobs; however, I feel that several of the differences between men and women should be maintained."

Yet, Sue insisted that there are very few differences between her and the other members of the rifle team. The similarities are not that evident when one looks at Sue. The blonde sophomore with careful aim is an imposing figure off the range, as well as on. She is a feminine, appealing girl—strictly a female female.

But, on the range, Sue leaves her nail polish behind in favor of gun oil. She doesn't seem to need the warpaint to favorably impress the men she competes with. In competition since she was 11, her scores are the best on the team. Her skill gives the men on the team an incentive to do better. "This year," Sue said, "there is teamwork. The scores are showing it."

Concerning her acceptance by the male-dominated squad, Sue observed, "At first they weren't used to the idea. They didn't know quite how to react. But after the initial shock, I became part of the team." Others, however, didn't respond in such an unaffected way. According to Sue, they were a little apprehensive. "Their first reaction is usually 'Wow—what's going on?'," she said with a laugh.

What's going on is this: Sue Lausten, foreign languages major from Columbus, Ohio, and female champion in several national competitions, is doing her thing. And her thing just happens to be the manly art of marksmanship, a thing at which she's most successful. The one accomplishment of which she is proudest is her open record in the kneeling position. No one—male or female—in the entire country is a better shot than she in that event. She also holds several state and national records and in 1968 won the National Junior Prone championship.

Champion—that's Sue Lausten. On the range and off the range, she's making her mark.

HOWARD BAILEY:
Black student leader

Some people are born followers and some are born leaders. Howard Bailey, a senior history major, fits the latter category.

Howard, in his fifth year at Western, is assistant dorm director of Barnes-Campbell Hall after serving an apprenticeship as floor counselor in West Hall for two years.

Born in Middlesboro, Howard became prominent in campus activities soon after coming to Western in 1966.

As a result of his work, with the help of others, Kappa Alpha Psi became the first recognized black fraternity on campus when it was installed May 10, 1969, with Howard as its first president.

Before the fraternity was established, Howard was a member of the Kappa Q's club, the main purpose of which was to bring at least one black Greek organization here. Another fraternity, Omega Psi Phi, and two sororities, Alpha Kappa Alpha and Delta Sigma Theta, were established at Western after Kappa Alpha Psi's inception.

Discussing the black student on the Western campus, Bailey said relations are much better than they were in 1966 when he came to the Hill. He feels the black student was accepted then but had no real purpose other than being a student. In relation to campus activities, he was a nobody.

Howard believes the Black Student Union, started in the spring of 1970, has accomplished much. "Every black has a responsibility to support an organization of this kind."

While Western's blacks haven't accomplished everything Bailey would have them accomplish, he feels that Western is "much further advanced than any other predominantly white school in Kentucky."

Before 1968 the only outstanding black student was the athlete, Howard pointed out. "This was the only outlet which could make a black accepted on campus. Sports were the only way a black could participate with whites."

Howard said he doesn't believe the outstanding black athletes have done as much as they could for their race. "They are in a position to strive and uplift their race, but they have not taken this standpoint."

He has a tendency to look down on a black who gets caught up in himself and does not strive to accomplish something for his race, he concedes.

"Many times a white liberal fits into the same category. It's getting hard to tell who is going to help you or who is going to benefit from helping you."

On the subject of the administration, Howard said administrators respect, accept and recognize the black student much more now than four years ago. "They're beginning to understand that the background, heritage, and culture of a black student is different from the white student, and on occasions he must be handled differently."

"The black student has always been faced with the fact that he was black and was discriminated against. Therefore most of us were more concerned with growing up than with what we were going to be when we grew up, which is the common concern of the white child. Only in recent years has the black been able to look at the future and think about what he was going to be."

Bailey sees black-oriented courses as an excellent opportunity to learn about black history and culture, which have "long been hidden from blacks."

A history major, Howard thinks the relationship between black males and white males is better than the one between black females and white females.

He believes the black woman finds it more difficult to gain acceptance both on campus and off. "She is too often graded on the same criteria as white women, and she has qualifications and talents and unique qualities all her own."

Turning to the future, Howard said he hopes to teach, but he would like to stay in school as long as possible to continue to better himself.

Also he expressed the hope to "write a history book which is neither black nor white. One which would state the birth of our nation and the true history of the nation since then, and how it related to both blacks and whites."

"It's true, it is still a white man's world, but too few whites are aware of what a great part the black man took in building this great white empire."

CHUCK CRUME: Naturalist, artist, student

If variety is the spice of life, Chuck Crume's days are well-seasoned: he's an artist, a naturalist, a student and a lecturer.

Crume holds a novel position on campus as he is thought of as both a college student and a member of the faculty. The dual role presents no problems, he says. "I consider myself me. I'm a member of something that's happening, and I enjoy both ends of it."

Part of the day he continues his studies as a senior recreation major; after classes he returns to his office and becomes graphic director for Western's television department.

But the 37 year-old artist is probably best known for his nature prints, which are already increasing in value although he has only been in the limited edition print business for three and one-half years.

Crume didn't set out to be an artist, although he admits to "piddling in it all my life." He studied art and philosophy in the evening at the University of Louisville while working as a switchman for Southern Bell Telephone Co. "But I think subconsciously I was preparing for something other than an industrial job because of my major and minor."

While working for the telephone company he was asked to write a nature column for The Kentucky Standard, a weekly newspaper at Bardstown. He did small sketches to accompany "Nature Notebook," as the column was called.

This led him to a position as chief naturalist of Bernheim Forest near Louisville and renewal of his interest in nature art. As chief naturalist he was in charge of the nature center, preparing exhibits, talking to schoolchildren and visitors, and taking care of the nature trail.

Becoming interested in nature photography, he amassed more than 3,000 color slides, which he now uses to illustrate his lectures. Although he admits he can't paint from slides, even those in color, Crume finds the picture serves as a valuable reference. A slide can "renew your memory of a particular plant in the middle of winter," Crume explains.

After three years with Bernheim, Crume accepted an invitation by Dr. Kelly Thompson, then president of Western, to become interpretive naturalist and lecturer in residence at Western.

"The older I get, the more I hate cities," he said. In his eyes, cities are "confused masses and noise—tinsel and surface things . . . concrete, smoke, noise, wall-to-wall people."

Although he dislikes cities, he loves the university atmosphere with its "young people—uninhibited to a point—and their new ideas." He feels the university holds an "open, creative environment."

Crume describes the university as an "area of organized confusion; how can you help but think when in one class you're discussing art and 20 minutes later you're in a class talking about philosophy."

The opposite is true, he says, of a society of people "battered with conformity and absence of thought." He is distressed that people can fall into a "grooved 8-to-5 existence—a dead existence. People shackled to doing something they don't like aren't living.

"You never really enjoy eating until you've been really, really hungry. I couldn't go to college when I was younger and now I really enjoy it. Perhaps I'm more motivated than most students."

It goes without saying that one of Chuck's chief loves is nature. Most people don't like the outdoors because they're afraid of it, he says; to really enjoy it, they must lose their fear. "People don't realize they are much safer in the wild than in civilization," he points out. "You can't get killed by a car accident or mugged in nature.

Crume views students as "a concerned group, who sometimes just don't know what to be concerned about—or what they really want." He's convinced that most students "want badly to become involved; they're waiting for the teacher to turn them on to a meaningful cause."

Chuck has a new goal: "I am dedicated to the education of the general public about environment. I don't believe students know about ecology—they don't realize what environment really is, so how can they get excited about what they know nothing about?

"This is one area our schools have failed in. It's ridiculous that a person is able to graduate from a university and not even be basically familiar with his surroundings."

Crume's conversation often returns to his thoughts about people who live "grooved lives." In his view, "Life is too much fun and too diverse."

SALLY WEBB: Panhellenic president

"I'm gung-ho Greeks. I knew I wanted to be in a sorority when I came to Western," said Sally Webb, past-president of the Panhellenic Council. "I really enjoy working with Greeks."

But Sally isn't what many persons regard the typical sorority girl to be. One of her major concerns is the future of the fraternity and sorority way of college life. "People seem to think you have to be a stereotyped person to be a Greek," she said, "but I don't believe this is true because I don't think anyone could put me into any category."

Sally insists she has received a great deal back from all she has put into her sorority work. "Greeks give you a well-rounded view of life on a small scale. An individual experiences what he's going to have to put up with for the rest of his life."

She has been a member of Alpha Xi Delta since her freshman year and has served as its vice president, rush chairman and publicity director, in addition to her Panhellenic work. She was also named the 1970 Athenian Queen.

Although sorority business takes up a great deal of her time, she has served on the Associated Students Congress and the National College Fashion Board, plus membership in the Iva Scott Home Economics Club.

A native of Beaver, Pa., Sally is a home economics education major and hopes to teach, maybe on the college level someday, or go into the business side of home economics. "I've also thought about getting my master's but I'm going to wait and see about that."

Sally is well aware of the Greeks' problems: "Too many times they're concerned with their individual group rather than working with the whole Greek system."

But she's quick to praise the same system. "Greeks do so much good. People don't realize that sometimes. Instead they think all Greeks do is party all the time."

She feels the new emphasis placed on individuality is both helping and hurting the Greek concept. "It's making Greeks more active on more levels such as working on civic projects, but at the same time many students don't want to join a fraternity or sorority because they feel they might lose their individuality and that just isn't the case."

Asked why she chose home economics as a major, Sally replied that she was interested in learning about the domestic side of life. "I just wasn't the domestic type." But now she sees her choice as one that provides a well-rounded education for girls no matter what they decide to do.

Returning to Panhellenic, Sally conceded that she has considered working with the National Panhellenic Conference on a professional basis, or perhaps as a local adviser.

As for Western's Panhellenic Council, the president said, "Panhellenic used to be a cut-throat competition. Now everyone works together. Everyone is striving for themselves and each other. Because they are all Greeks, they are reaching for the same goals."

"The Greeks have the spirit to continue and to master their goals," Sally added. "But we must continue to work together."

HOMECOMING QUEEN

Suzanne Riggins, Chi Omega, was crowned queen in annual pre-game festivities October 10. She is a senior Psychology major from Annadale, Va., and represented her sorority and Sigma Nu in Homecoming ceremonies.

HOMECOMING at Western, 1970, followed in the tradition set in former years. A Friday night rain resulted in soggy house and dorm decorations but with Saturday came the sun and spirits were roused by a big parade and pre-game parties. Fans in the latest fashions and with bourbon carefully hidden watched the football team do its part by defeating Eastern Michigan 45-6.

MOUNTAIN LAUREL REPRESENTATIVE

Brunette Joy French was chosen to represent Western at the Mountain Laurel Festival, held each May when the pink and white blossoms open in Pineville. A native of Elizabethtown, Miss French is a junior elementary education major and a member of Kappa Delta Sorority.

MILITARY BALL QUEEN

Tina Showalter was chosen to reign at the annual Military Ball. A senior from Louisville, Tina is also a cheerleader and was chosen to represent Western in Who's Who.

JUDGES NAME MISS SOWERS MISS WESTERN

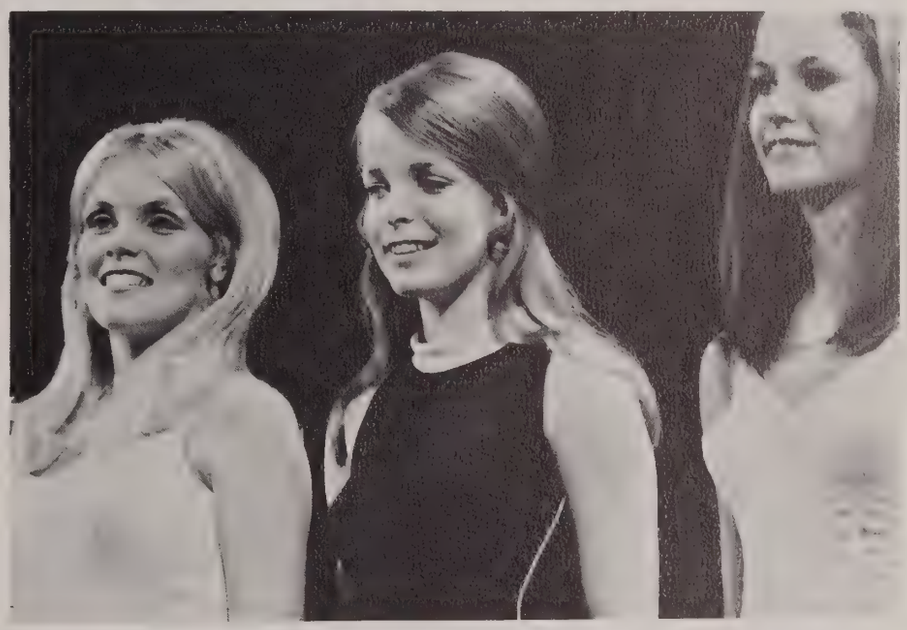
Mary Anne Sowers was crowned Miss Western 1971 in the annual pageant Feb. 11. The sophomore music major from Valley Station represented Phi Mu Alpha fraternity. By virtue of her title, she will represent Western in the Miss Kentucky pageant, a preliminary to the Miss America contest.

For the talent portion of the pageant, Miss Sowers played "The Little Shepherd" on the flute.

Awaiting the announcement that will give one of them the crown and title, the five finalists try to relax and remember to smile as the judges make their choice. Miss Western, Mary Anne Sowers, at left, sits with her soon-to-be court of Pat Smith, third runner-up; Lois Eigelbach, fourth runner-up; Beth Bradshaw, first runner-up; and Wibby Anderson, second runner-up and Miss Congeniality.

A breathless Mary Anne Sowers accepts congratulations from her fellow contestants as she tries to realize that her dreams have come true.



For the girl-watchers, the bathing-suit competition is a delight; for the girls, it's a crucial moment before the judges.

Tense moments backstage are filled with changing clothes, adjusting hairdos and makeup, and peeking into the audience to catch a glimpse of a friendly face.

All the secrets for making a beautiful girl even prettier are put into play in preparation for the annual pageant.

Disbelief rocks Pat Smith as she learns she has been selected one of the five finalists in the contest. Sponsored by Phi Chi Theta, she later was named third runner-up.

Charlie Brown and his troubles with the little red-haired girl provided the inspiration for a monologue by Pat Geiser, during the talent competition. Sigma Nu was Miss Geiser's sponsor.

The dressing-room rush starts slowly as the first girls arrive to prepare for the contest. Before long the room becomes crowded with beautiful girls in their beautiful gowns and the nervousness that grabs just before the walk on stage.

In her last moments as Miss Western 1970, Kathy Knight walks the runway before giving up her crown.

VALENTINE KING AND QUEEN

Martha Jo Johnson and Mark Pride were crowned Valentine King and Queen at the annual ball Feb. 12. The winners were determined on the basis of money collected in a week-long fund-raising drive by the sophomore class and then a popular vote at the dance. Miss Johnson, a junior elementary education major, is from Bowling Green; Pride is a junior business administration major from Morganfield. Their candidacies were sponsored by Alpha Delta Pi and Sigma Nu, respectively.

ATHENIAN KING AND QUEEN

Selected as Athenian Ball King and Queen as part of Greek Week were Marshall Galloway and Claudia Houston. Galloway, a Sigma Nu, is a junior from Sedalia and a speech major. He served as IFC president this year. An Alpha Omicron Pi, Miss Houston is a senior elementary education major from Louisville and has worked as Panhellenic Council rush chairman. The two were chosen for their outstanding contributions to inter-Greek activities.

HOMECOMING COURT

MISS BLACK WESTERN

The first Miss Black Western pageant, held Feb. 28, was sponsored by Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority for the purpose of recognizing black women for their beauty, talents and contributions to campus life. Taking the crown was Carolyn Brown, a junior physical education and English major from Louisville.

MATURITY COMES QUICKLY— TOPPERS TAKE OVC CROWN

With an inexperienced offense and a veteran defense, Western's Hilltoppers were picked no higher than third in a preseason poll of OVC coaches. But Western's first-year men came through and helped bring the conference championship trophy to the Hill for the first time since 1963. The team compiled an 8-1-1 record over-all and was rated as high as fifth in the nation in the college division polls. Key victories included wins over sixth-ranked Eastern Michigan and conference rivals Eastern, Murray and Morehead.

Playing with a young backfield, the Toppers averaged over 24 points a game while holding their opponents to 7.6 points and 162.8 yds. a game. Several records were set although half of the games were played in the mud. For the third consecutive year, Little All-American Lawrence Brame was named the OVC's Outstanding Defensive Player.

Jay Davis, who holds all of Western's pass-receiving records, caught 25 passes for 433 yards. Steve Wilson booted 29 of 30 extra points and five of eight field goals, including a 42-yarder tying a school record.

On the first play from scrimmage, Little All-American Lawrence Brame broke the collarbone of the Indiana State quarterback and thus began a dismal afternoon for the Sycamores. For the game, the defense was responsible for 17 of the 30 points scored by the Toppers. Freshman tailback John Embree showed promise for the future, gaining 156 yards and scoring two touchdowns in his first collegiate game.

TENTH-RANKED TOPPERS STUN SIXTH-RANKED HURONS 45-6

Everybody had a ball in the Eastern Michigan game, played before a capacity crowd in Smith Stadium on Homecoming Day. Embree scored twice, as did Peckenpaugh, who was regaining his starting position. Place kicker Steve Wilson scored 9 points and Jay Davis broke a WKU career record with 4 pass receptions for 121 yards. As a team, the Toppers picked off 4 enemy passes and recovered 2 fumbles.

WESTERN BLITZES GOLDEN EAGLES 28-0

Peckenpaugh and Nat Northington scored twice each while the Big Red defense held Tennessee Tech to 135 total yards.

TOPPERS CLIMB TO 12th IN NATIONAL RANKING

WKU-19, EKU-7 TOPPERS TAKE GAME OF THE YEAR

In the game for first place in the OVC, Western's defense put the Colonels' quarterback out of the game and caused Eastern star Jimmy Brooks to fumble twice while holding him to 61 yards, his lowest output of the year. The Topper defense did not allow the Colonels a first down in the second half.

"It sure feels good to get revenge." —Bill Hape

"It was great." —Lawrence Brame

Peckenpaugh proved capable under fire with his roll-out passes.

All-Conference place kicker Steve Wilson led the conference in accuracy and was third among all scorers.

WESTERN ESCAPES EAGLES' NEST, 24-14

After blowing a 17-0 lead, the Hilltoppers had to fight off a determined Morehead rally. The Eagles led in every category except the score, but Western's desire for a conference championship and a possible bowl bid won out.

—Coach Feix

"They're very similar to those strong defensive teams Alabama had a few years ago."
—Pat Salanoff, Coach, Eastern Michigan

This pass got away from Porter Williams (22), but against Murray he set a pass-completion record by teaming up with Peckenpaugh on a 96-yard touchdown pass.

MTSU JARS CONFERENCE HOPES

The Blue Raiders of Middle Tennessee dampened the spirits of Western supporters by knocking the Toppers out of first place with a hard-hitting defense. The Big Red fell 17-13 despite last-minute efforts to catch up.

—Coach Butch Gilbert

BUTLER BECOMES MUDDIEST VICTIM

With 10 seniors playing their last home game, Western proved the best team in the mud once again. Despite the mire, the Toppers managed 265 yards total offense to 70 for Butler and won 14-0.

(Above) Topper defenders were "guests" in the opponents' backfield all season. (Right) Bob McGrath pounces on an Eastern fumble, only one of 26 the Topper defense recovered during the season, to break a conference record.

Western's football season was highlighted by 3 "ups and downs." Coach Feix got a ride to the dressing room after beating Eastern and taking over first place on October 24.

MURRAY WANTS REVENGE, GETS SINGED

Still tasting last year's drubbing, the Racers were too keyed-up and Western played like a true champion, winning 33-7. Clarence Jackson was the big weapon as he ended the season second in scoring in the OVC.

Western finished the season as OVC champions and was rated 12th in the nation. Defensive end Lawrence Brame was all-OVC, Defensive Player of the Year for the third time and first team Little All-American. Other Toppers on the all-OVC team were defensive back Bill Green, linebacker Jim Barber, wingback Jay Davis, guard Dennis Durso and place kicker Steve Wilson.

After the Middle Tennessee game, the season seemed a total loss for freshman quarterback Leo Peckenpaugh.

On the last day of the season Western beat Murray while Morehead knocked off Eastern and a trip to the showers seemed appropriate for everyone, especially Coach Jim Feix, since the Big Red was now No. 1.

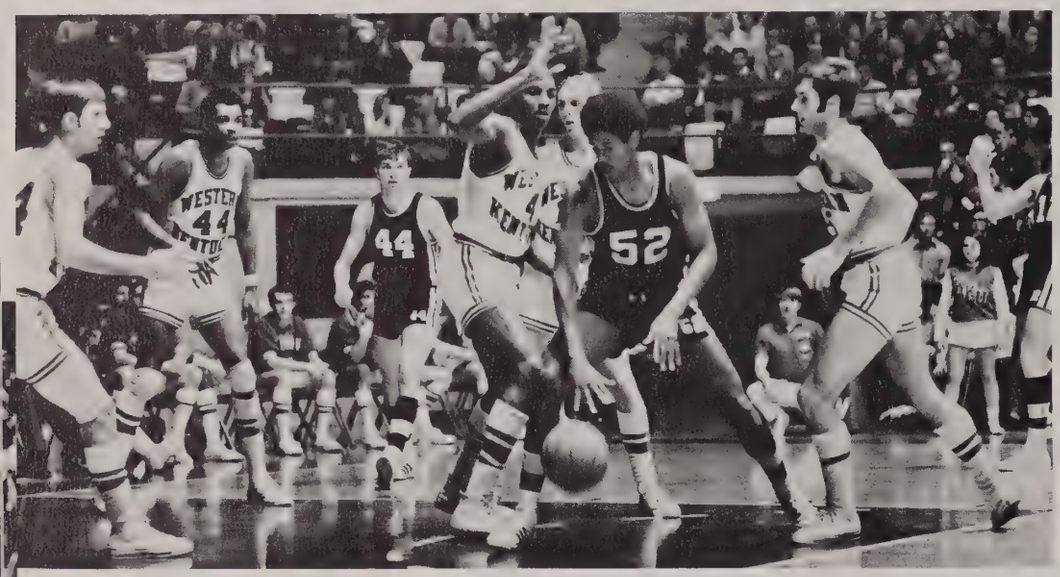
"This means so much to me, you just can't imagine."
—Lawrence Brame

TALENTED TOPPER BASKETBALL TEAM ROLLS TO SECOND STRAIGHT TITLE

For Western the 1970-71 basketball season was one of mixed emotions. To a lineup of McDaniels, Rose, Perry, Glover and Sundmacker, well-remembered for the 22-3 record posted in 1969-70, Coach John Oldham added newcomers Jerry Dunn and Rex Bailey and the result was a combination that created headlines even before the first game. Shortly before the season opened, Jerome Perry suffered an injury that sidelined him for the year.

Christmas was especially good to the Hilltoppers as Western avenged last year's NCAA Mideast Regional loss to the Jacksonville Dolphins by coming up with a sterling performance at Louisville.

Moving on to the Holiday Festival in New York, the Toppers took second place. McDaniels captured "Most Valuable Player" honors in the tournament and Western climbed into the top five in the national rankings.



In the Hilltoppers' improved defense, everyone got into the act.

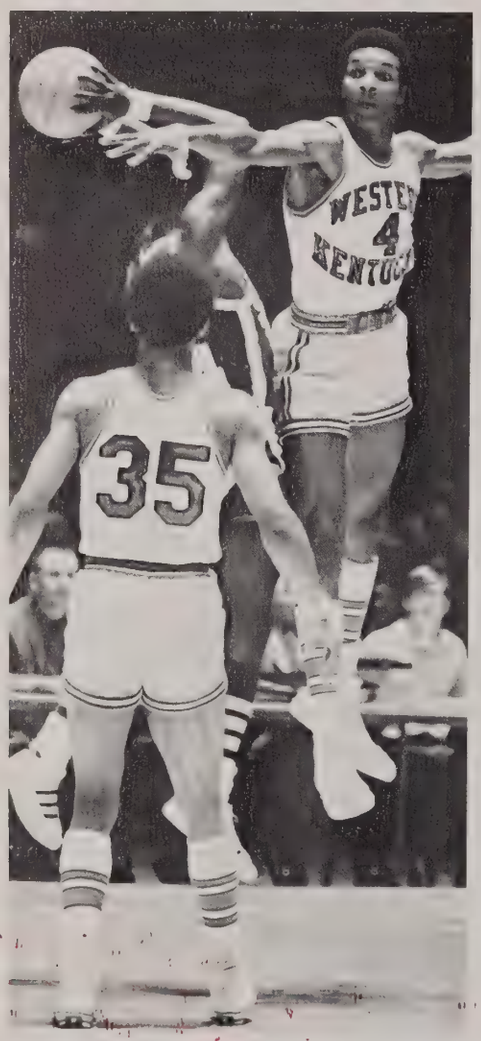
At the least little slip on any opponent's part, all-conference guard Jim Rose was in there grabbing the ball for the Big Red.

(Left) Jerome Perry was forced to watch the team from the bench after an injury kept his knee in a cast for most of the year. (Above) Junior college transfer Rex Bailey and veteran Clarence Glover posed an effective mid-court barrier for a hapless opponent

There was little rest for the Toppers between their triumphant trip east and the beginning of OVC play. Tired from their month-long road trip, they opened the conference season by squeaking past East Tennessee and Tennessee Tech.

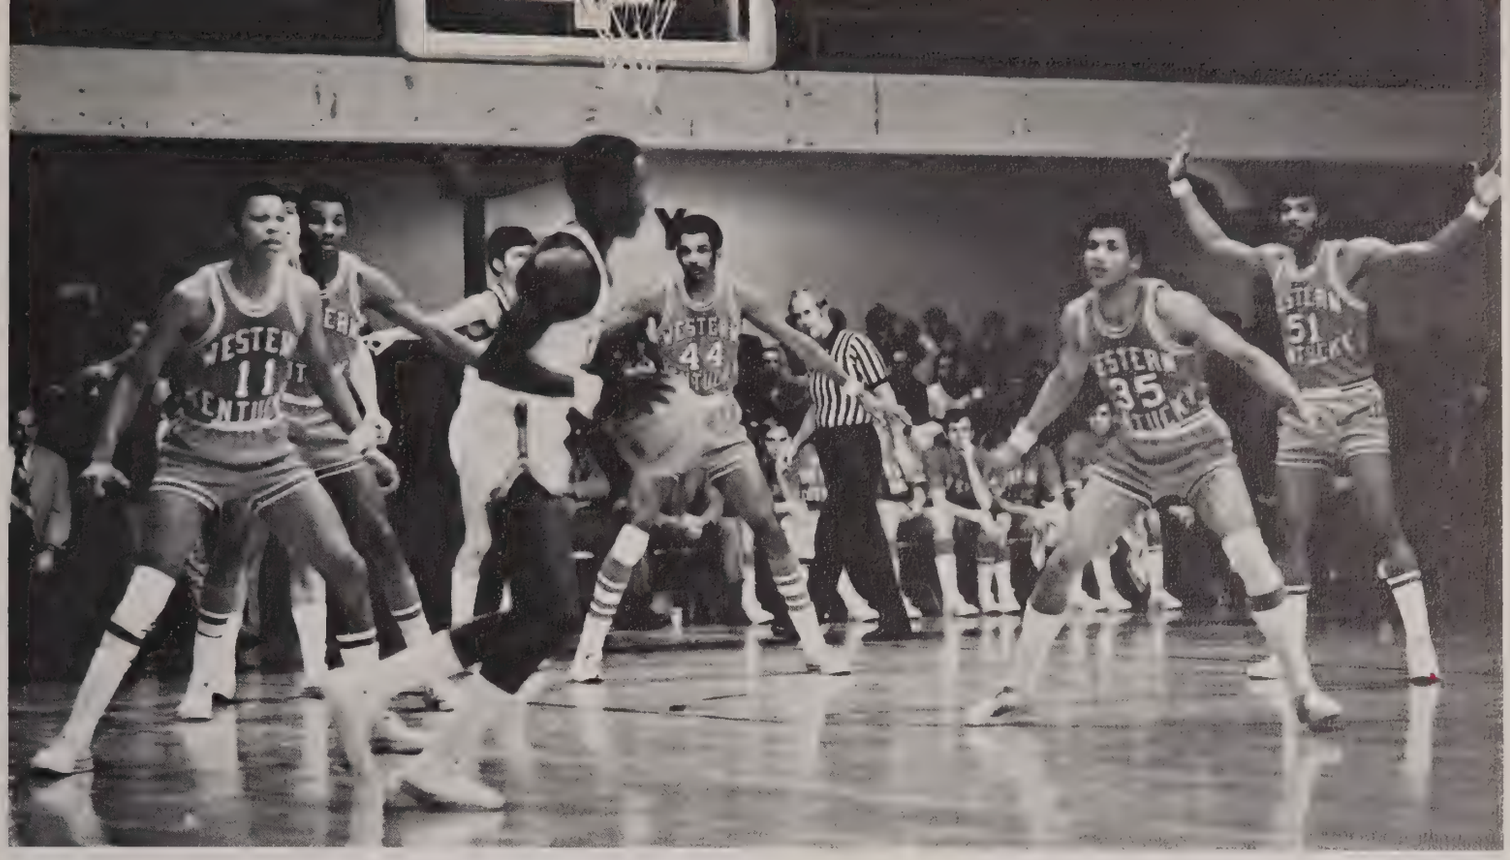
The Hilltoppers mowed down the opposition until Jan. 23, when a strong Murray team smashed all hopes for an undefeated conference record by taking a hard-fought 73-71 victory on the Racers' floor. It was the first OVC loss for the Hilltoppers in two seasons.

The rest of the season was a hectic race for the conference crown as Western assured itself of at least a tie by salvaging a 94-93 win over Eastern Feb. 22 on a jump shot by Danny Johnson with six seconds left in overtime.

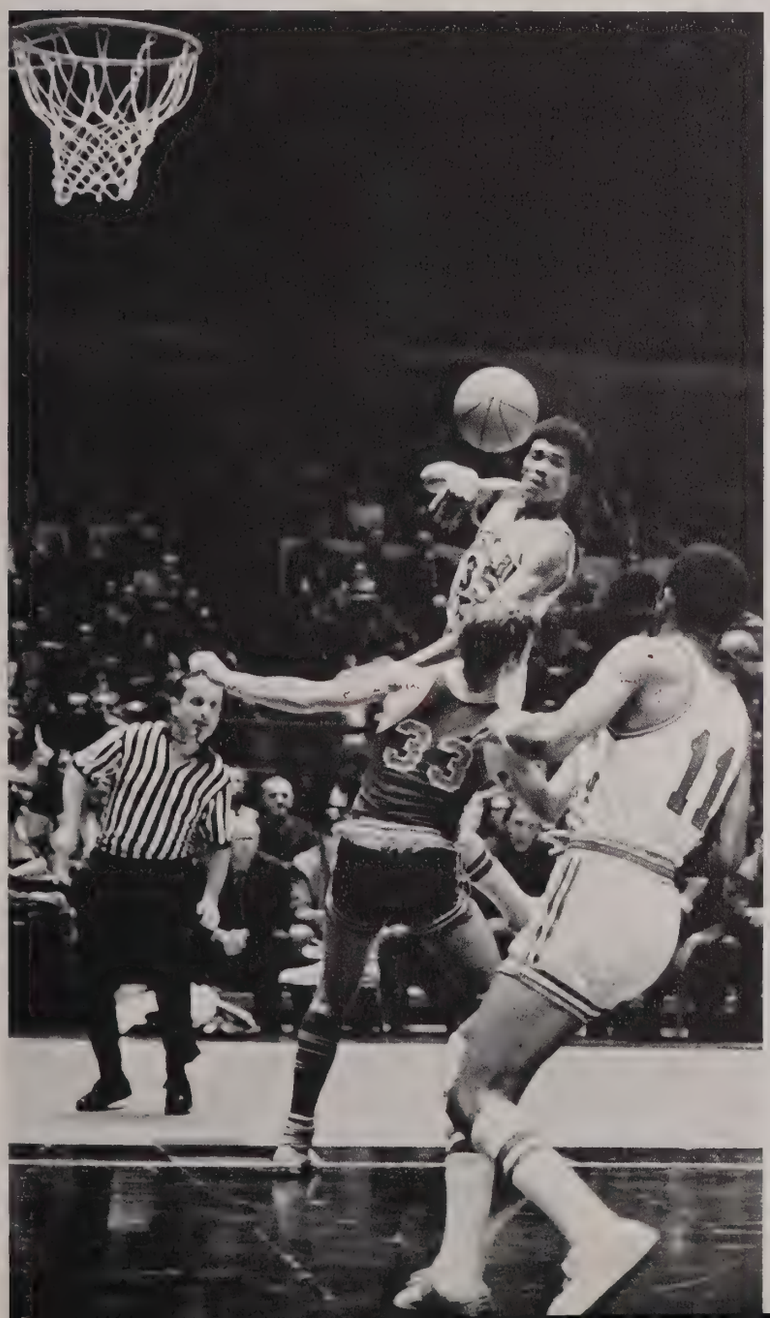


Without "Big C" to harass opponents on defense next year, the Toppers may find that rival offenses appear considerably stronger.

Guarding Jim McDaniels can be a very frustrating business that prompts tactics born in desperation.



"Man, defense is the name of our game this season."—Jim McDaniels



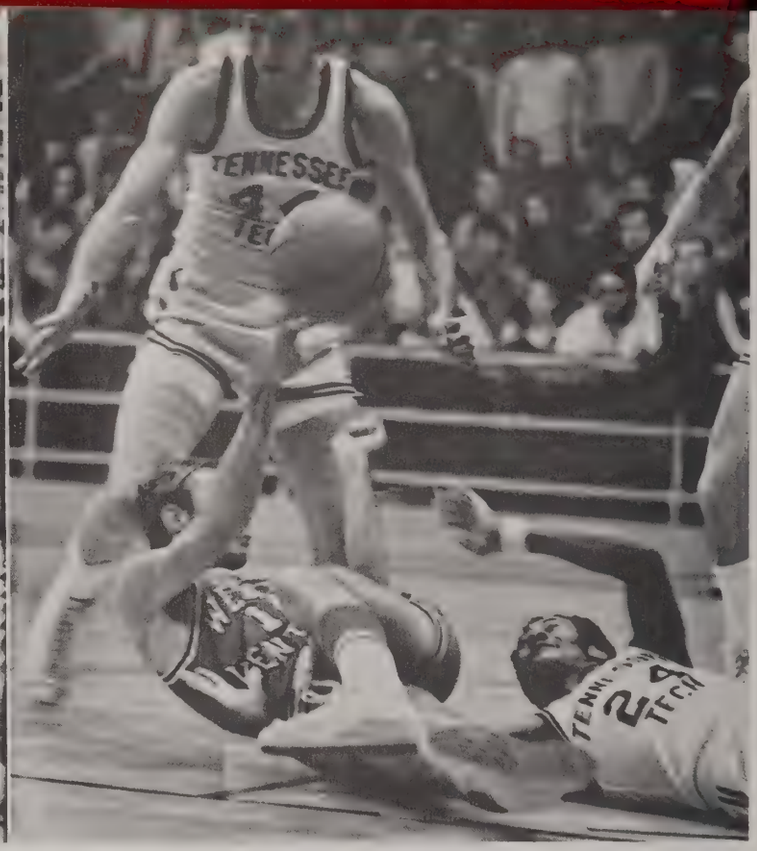
Playing in a reserve role this year, Danny Johnson came off the bench numerous times to provide the much-needed push to victory.

With four seniors playing their last game in Diddle Arena, the Toppers trampled Murray on Feb. 27 before 14,227, the largest crowd ever to see a game at Western. The contest was something of a mismatch as Western walked over the Racers 73-59. The Hilltoppers took their second straight OVC crown and their 14th since the league was formed. The win insured them of an invitation to the NCAA play-offs at South Bend, Ind.

What everyone thought would be an anti-climactic victory over Austin Peay in the last game of the season turned into an upset as the Governors handed Western a stinging 96-94 loss.

McDaniels put on quite a show in his final regular-season game as he broke two school records. He took over the all-time career scoring lead (2,238 points) from Ralph Crosthwaite (2,076), who played varsity ball for four years in 1955-58, and his 1,118 rebounds topped Art Spoelstra's record (1,043), set in 1952-54. Earlier in the year McDaniels broke the OVC career scoring mark.

One thing the Toppers proved this year was that for all their individual skills, they play as a team. Rex Bailey passes over an opponent's head to Jim Rose in the Holiday Tournament win over St. John's.



Never far from the center of action is Gary Sundmacker. Thanks to him, many a loose ball was turned into points for the Toppers.

(Above) In many ways the rematch with Jacksonville in December was the highlight of the season as the Hilltoppers out-jumped, out-rebounded, out-played the Dolphins. In the battle of the 7-footers, Jim McDaniels completely overshadowed the taller Artis Gilmore. (Right) In addition to moving into 12th place on Western's all-time scoring list, nimble Jim Rose consistently applied pressure where it was needed the most.

High-jumping Jerry Dunn amazed opponents with his ability to pick off rebounds. At 6-5 he did the job of a much taller player.

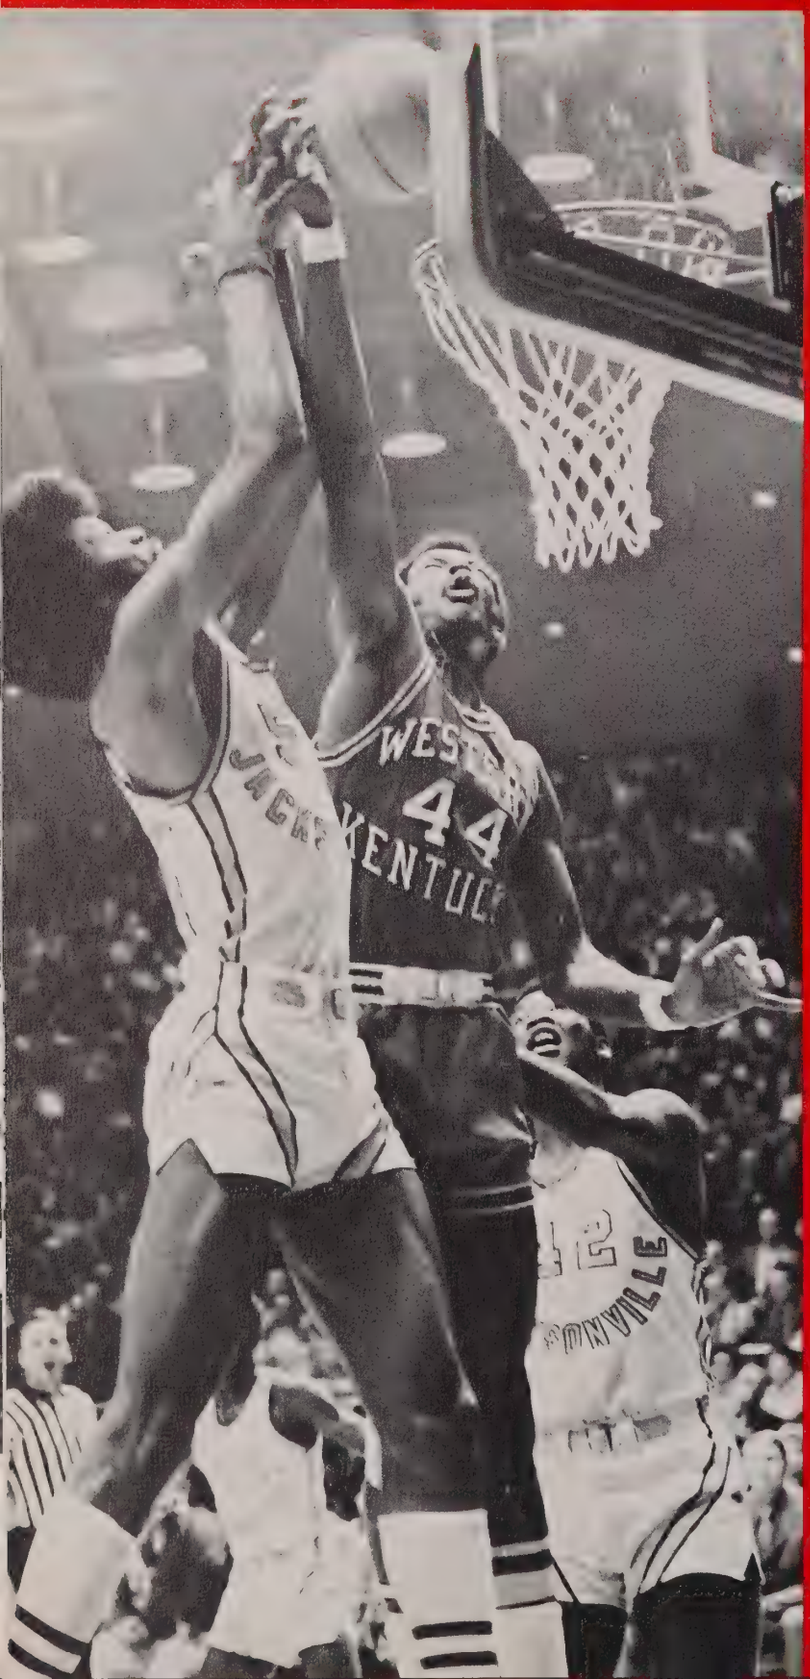
"Each of our seniors has the ability to play pro ball if he desires, and I feel that this will be a motivating factor for them."

—Coach John Oldham

(Above) Another key member of Western's reserves was Chuck Witt, who progressed steadily throughout the season. (Below) Another conference championship, a rough season and visions of bringing home nets from other places may have been Jim McDaniels' thoughts as he cut down the nets after Western clinched the crown by defeating Murray Feb. 27.

TOPPERS CLIMAX EXCITING SEASON WITH THIRD PLACE IN NCAA

For the second straight year in regional play it was a battle on the boards and a duel between giants Artis Gilmore and Jim McDaniels, but this year the result was more pleasant.



In this Land of the Red Towel, 1970-71 was a year of firsts as the Big Red Machine rocketed to third place on college basketball's national totem pole.

For the first time, a Western basketball team:

★ won an NCAA regional championship and a berth in the NCAA Finals;

★ met—and conquered—the University of Kentucky 107-83.

After repeating as Ohio Valley Conference champions and finishing seventh in the Associated Press poll, Coach Johnny Oldham's explosive Hilltoppers entered the NCAA's strongest regional tournament, the Mideast, and won it.

To reach the national finals the talent-rich Toppers had to hurdle three of the nation's elite—Jacksonville, ranked 11th nationally in the final AP poll and the national runner-up in 1969-70; UK, ranked No. 8 and the scourge of the Southeastern Conference; and Ohio State, ranked 10th and the pride of the Big Ten.

Along the post-season tournament trail:

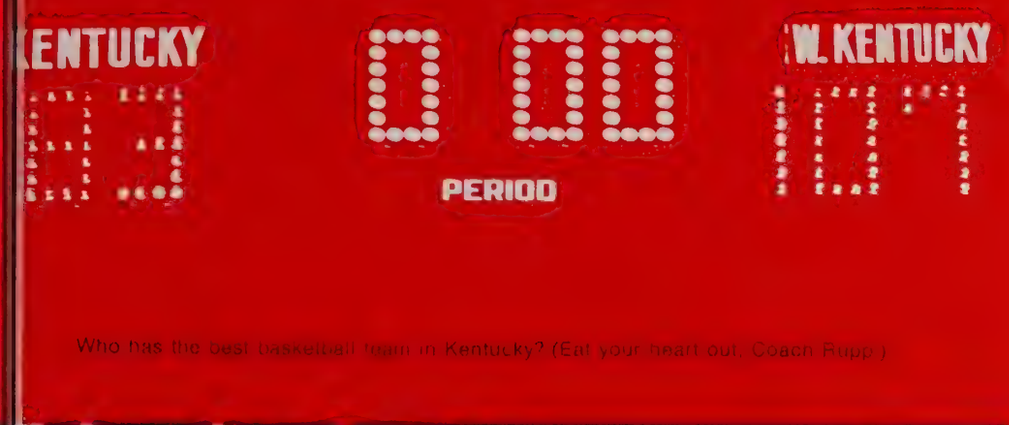
• Western 74, Jacksonville 72—The towering Dolphins spurted to an 18-point lead at Notre Dame's sports palace, before the Hilltoppers remembered last year's loss to Jacksonville in this same tourney and rallied with a vengeance, forging ahead for the first time with 1:43 remaining. With the score tied and eight seconds left, Jacksonville lost the ball on a traveling violation, thereby setting the stage for one of the classic plays in basketball history. Clarence Glover knelt near the basket as if to tie a shoelace, then straightened up to grab Gary Sundmacker's pass inbounds and dropped the ball through the hoop for the winning margin.

• Western 107, Kentucky 83—The first meeting in history of the two state powers resulted in perhaps Western's finest moment and UK Coach Adolph Rupp's "most humiliating loss." It was UK's worst defeat ever in NCAA tournament play. The outcome was never in doubt as the Toppers ran, shot and rebounded circles around the slower Cats.

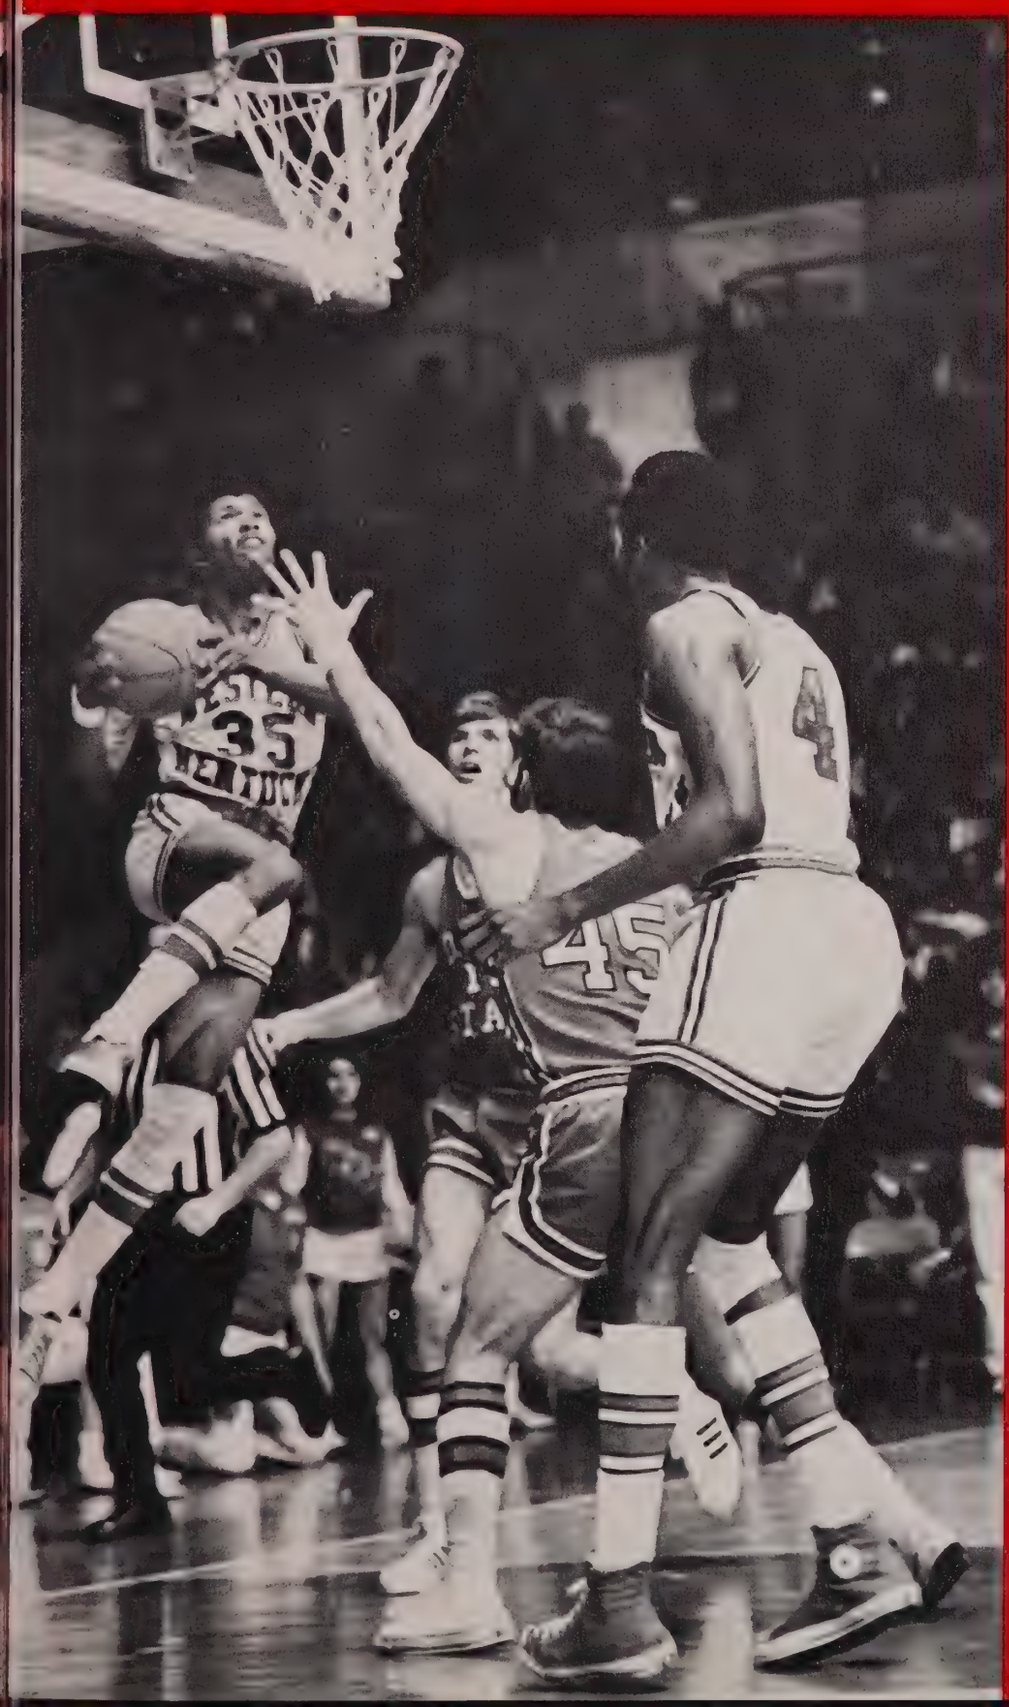
• Western 81, Ohio State 78—Trailing by 14 points in the first half, Western fought back to force the game into overtime when Rex Bailey hit a baseline jumper 13 seconds before the buzzer. With nine seconds remaining in the overtime, Glover hit two free throws to insure the 81-78 win in the finals of the Mideast Regional at Athens, Ga.

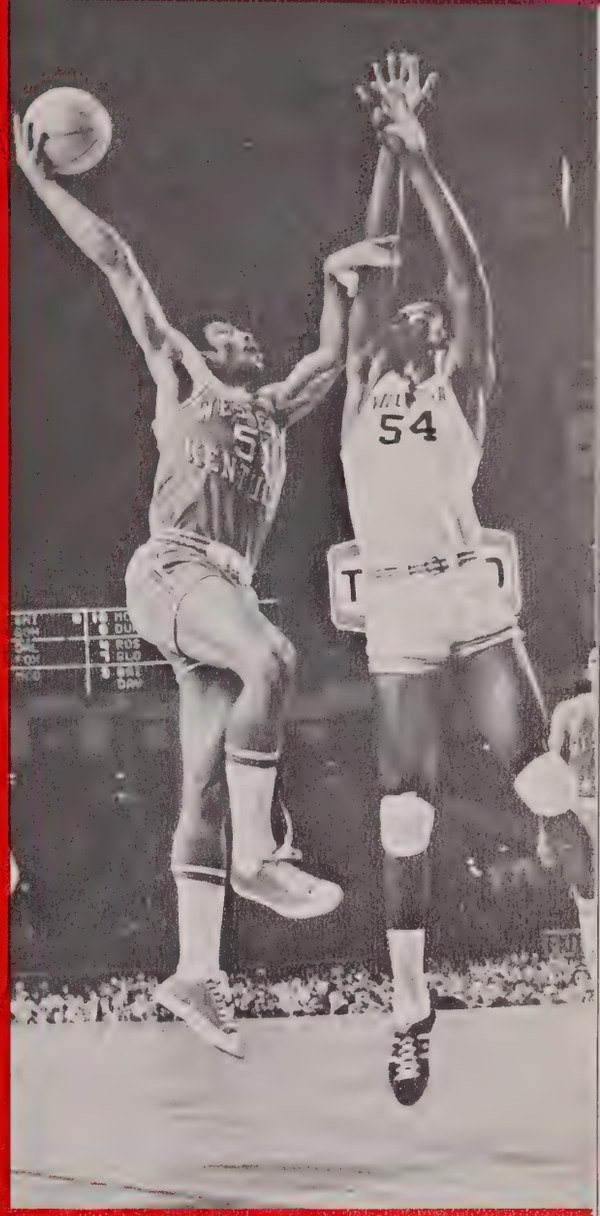
• Villanova 92, Western 89—In one of the most hotly contested semifinal games in NCAA history, longshot Villanova edged Western 92-89 in a double-overtime affair. The Toppers had several chances to win but their shots wouldn't drop, although all five starters scored in double figures. Hank Siemiontkowski scored a career-high 31 points to lead Villanova.

• Western 77, Kansas 75—Big Eight Conference champ Kansas, ranked fourth nationally, put up a game fight for the nation's No. 3 spot, but the Toppers avenged one of three setbacks in 1969-70. All-American Jim McDaniels was voted to the all-tourney five at both Houston and Athens.



Who has the best basketball team in Kentucky? (Eat your heart out, Coach Rupp.)





Jerry Dunn's hookshot was at its deadliest in the Villanova game, when he had his tournament high of 25 points.

STROUD LEADS FRESHMEN

Freshman star Tony Stroud proved tough in clutch situations throughout the season.

Although the main purpose of the Western freshman team is to prepare for the rough varsity play ahead, the frosh still managed to post a most successful win-loss record. Coach Buck Sydnor brought the team along slowly, attempting to develop Topper stars of the future.

Center Ray Bowerman, forwards Mike Larson and Tony Stroud, and guards Danny Blankenship, Gary Raymond and John Raines were steady performers all season.

CHEERLEADERS

Behind every great team is pride and school spirit. The Topper cheerleaders best exemplify the spirit and pride that Western teams have shown this year, perhaps more than ever before. On a long road trip with the team and often the only supporters away from home, they constantly give the team a lift when it is needed most.

Equally important in support and gymnastic routine are the men cheerleaders: Bill Luckert, Joe Zwiesler, Jerry Broander, David Cutler, Lanny Miller, Frank Rizzo and Rodney Howard.

RECRUITS REVIVE SWIMMERS

Chuck Seidelman, All-American from Grand Rapids (Mich.) Junior College, is one of only three upperclassmen on the 20-man squad.

(Above) Form, precision timing and a bit of daring combine in Bob Shaw to help provide the swimming team with a full measure of talent in diving. (Right) A much-needed rest between events keeps the team from tiring during competition.

Western's swim program is in its second year following a 3-4 record last season with a group of inexperienced swimmers, none of whom held a scholarship. Coach Bill Powell opened a recruiting drive which resulted in the signing of 11 blue-chip performers, including one junior college All-American. So much talent was assembled that no one from last year's team made this year's squad.

The All-American is Chuck Seidelman, a sprinter and middle-distance swimmer. Other top performers are Rick Yelovshan in middle distance events, sprinter Eric VanDellen, Dan Meyers in the backstroke, Dick Thorp in individual medley and breast stroke, diver Bob Shaw, distance man Bob Chamberlain, freestyler Tom Rosencrans, and Bob Carr, a good all-around swimmer who is the team captain.

Distance runner, Hector Ortiz, Western's No. 1 runner, broke the course record in the OVC meet but came in third in a surprising finish.

Jerry Gossett and John Swain kick for the finish.

Erwin Hartel closes in on teammate Ian Whittle in the home contest against Tennessee and Southeast Missouri

RUNNERS FINISH THIRD, DESPITE YOUNG TEAM

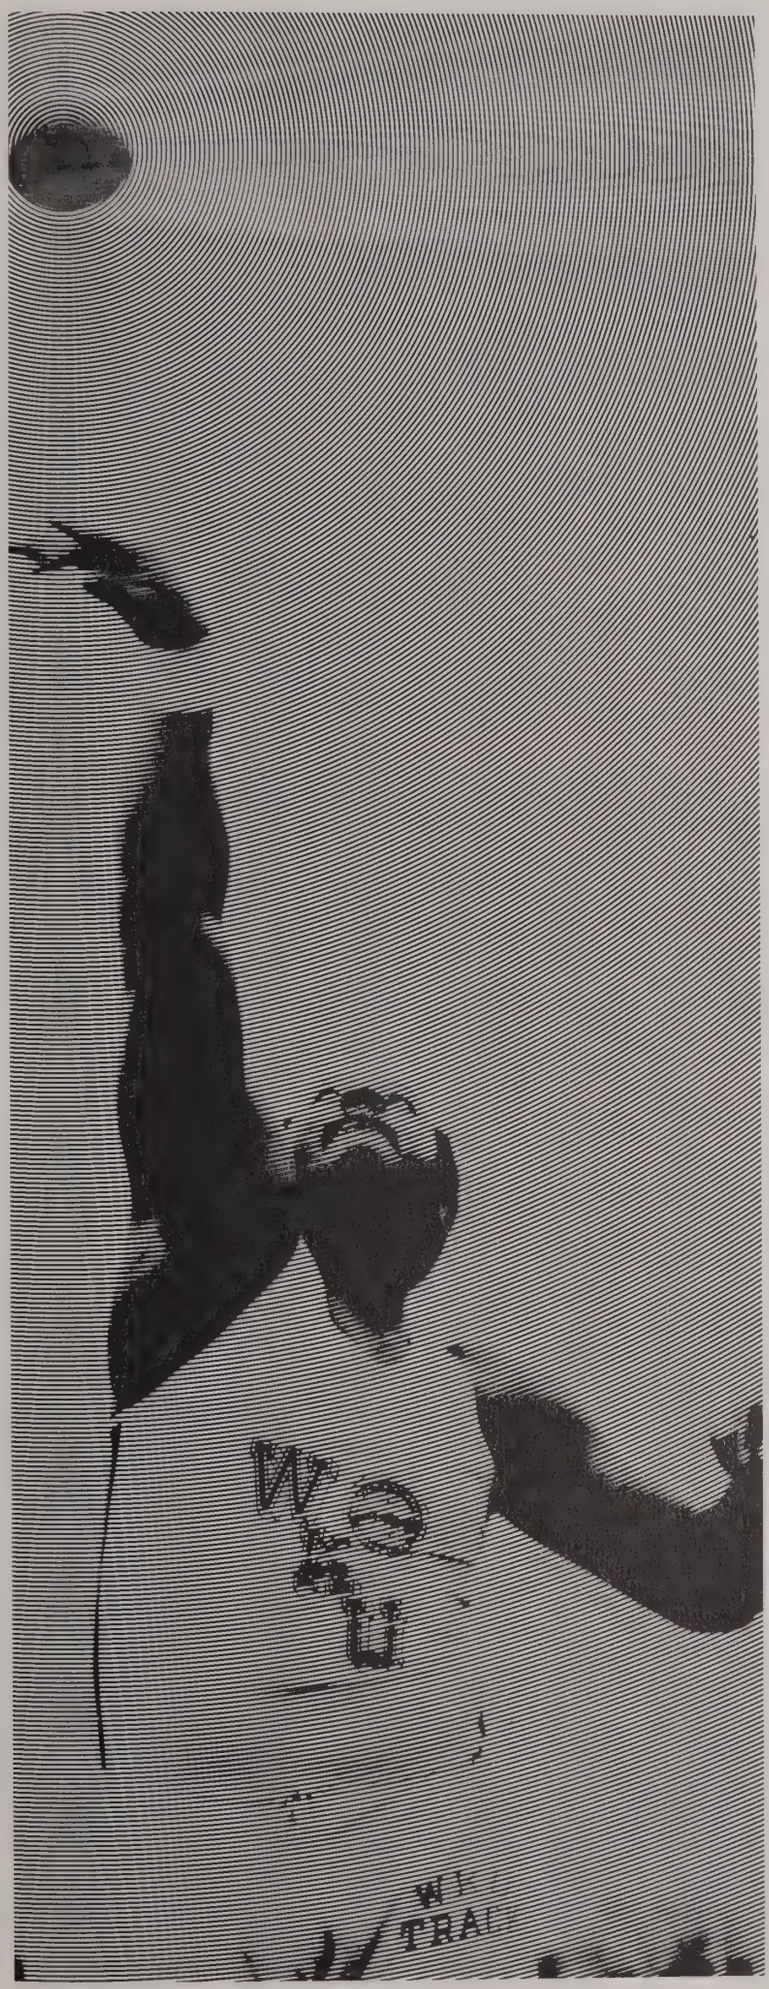
Expected to finish no higher than fourth in the Conference Cross Country meet, Western's inexperienced runners finished third just ahead of Morehead—the team favored to win it all. Hector Ortiz ran the 6-mile course in 29:23 and finished third, while Tim Harry placed 13th, Ian Whittle 19th, Erwin Hartel 25th, John Swain 34th, and Jerry Gossett was 35th. A week before the OVC meet Ortiz was clocked in 28:53 and won the Kentucky Federation title. The Toppers figure to be strong again next year, losing only Swain from this year's squad.

TRACKSTERS TOP FIELD FOR SEVENTH STRAIGHT TITLE

All-American Henry Jackson provided the spark that gave Western its seventh straight OVC track and field championship last spring. Coached by Burch Oglesby, OVC "Coach of the Year," Jackson accounted for 23 points by winning for the fourth consecutive year the triple, high and long jumps besides placing second in the 100-yard dash and anchoring the 440 relay team to a second place finish. His 26′-7¾″ long jump was the best by an American in the 1970 season and earned him the OVC "Track Man of the Year" award for the fourth time.

Other record performances were Bob Stoltman's discus throw of 173′-2″, Eugene Smith's shot put of 55′-6″, Hector Ortiz's mile run in 4:06.4, and Darrell Myers' half-mile finish in 1:51.6.

Among the Hilltoppers victims was Indiana University, Big 10 champions.



This season Coach Oglesby will find Jackson hard to replace in his fight for the OVC track crown. But with several veterans and some brilliant newcomers, Western is expected to be a contender once again for the title.

Performers expected to help out include shot-putters Smith and Joe Ellison; jumpers John Reed, Larry Locke and Emmett Briggs; vaulters Floyd Burnsed and David Cutler; sprinter Bill Green; hurdler David Rivers; and long distance runners Ortiz, Tim Harry, Ian Whittle and Erwin Hartel.

BASEBALL TEAM DEPLETED BY GRADUATION

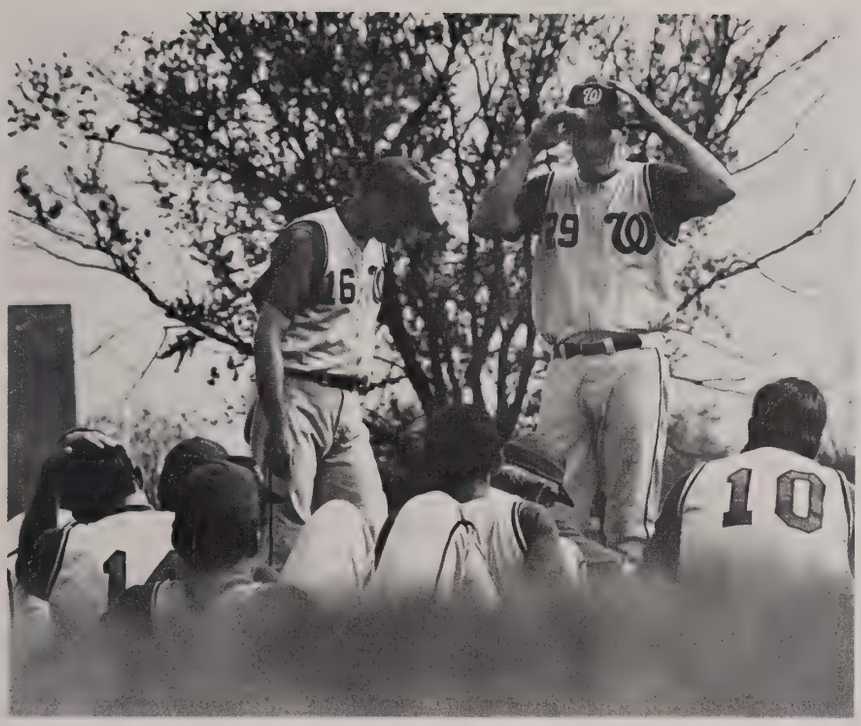
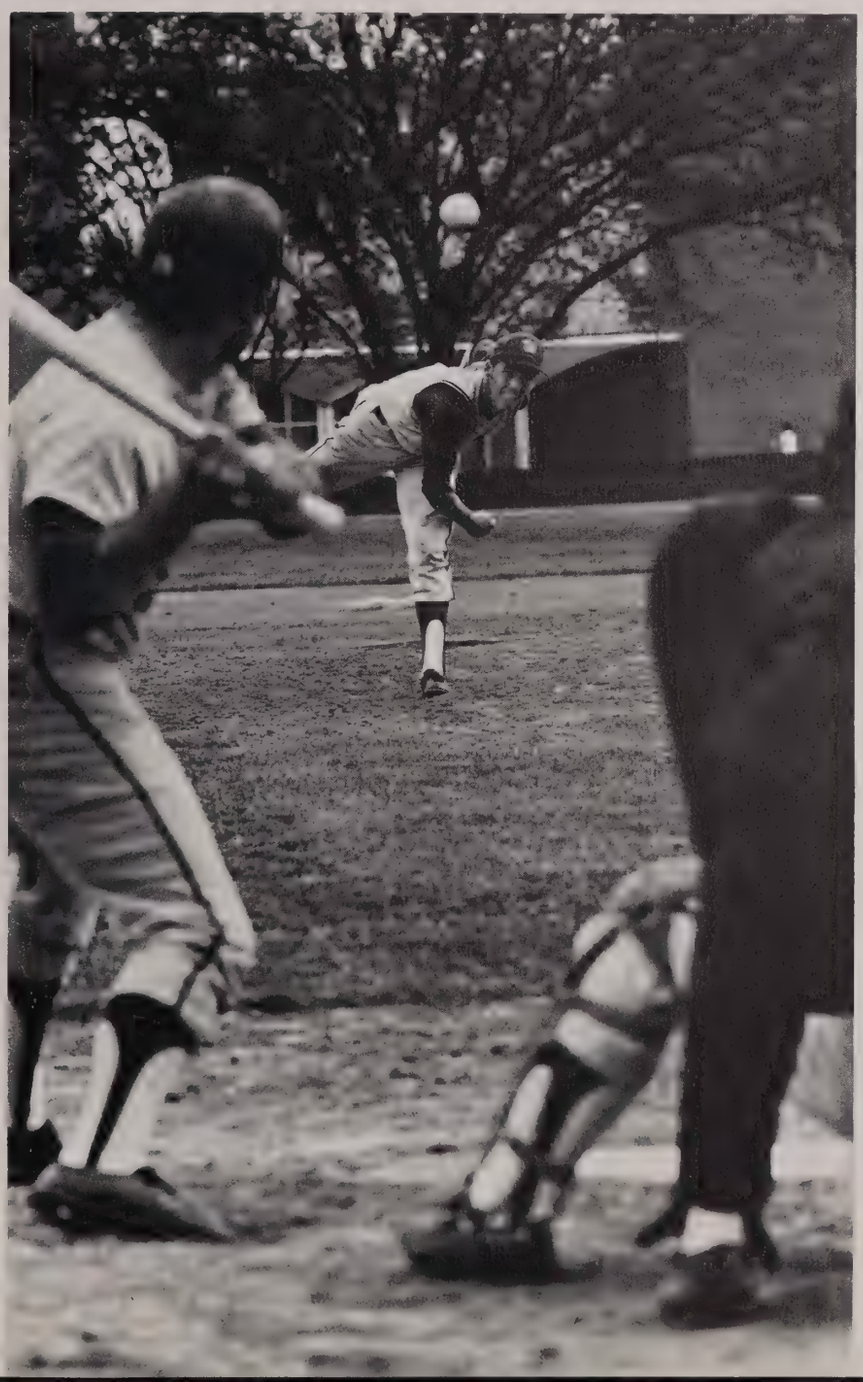
Last spring Western's baseball team, coached by Jim Pickens, enjoyed one of its finest seasons of all time. Even though bad weather canceled 19 games, the Toppers fashioned an 18-16 record over-all and a 6-4 record in conference play. With a lineup including all-conference pitcher Don Durham, infielder Jay Hickman, and outfielders Harry Jones and Jim Zwiesler, the team finished second in the Ohio Valley's Western division.

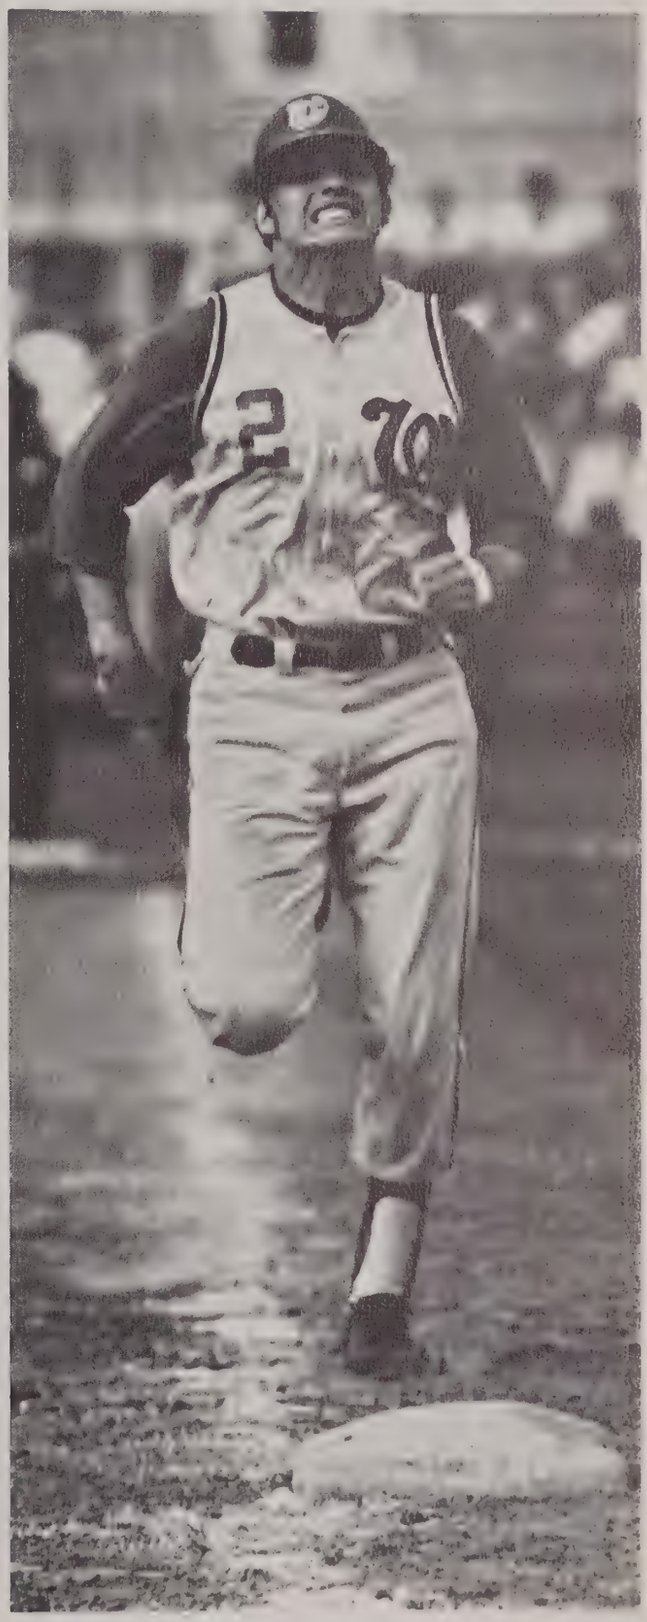
You catch 'em and I'll call 'em.

A close play at home typified last season's tight conference race.



Graduation, which hit the Hilltoppers heavily, and the invasion of pro scouts have left many positions open to be filled by younger, less experienced players. Coach Pickens will rely on these rookies in an effort to produce a championship team in the usually close conference race.





Two players who will be hard to replace this year are hurler Don Durham, winner of 10 games last season, who is now pitching for St. Louis, and all-OVC outfielder Jim Zwiesler.

GOLF TEAM FACES REBUILDING YEAR

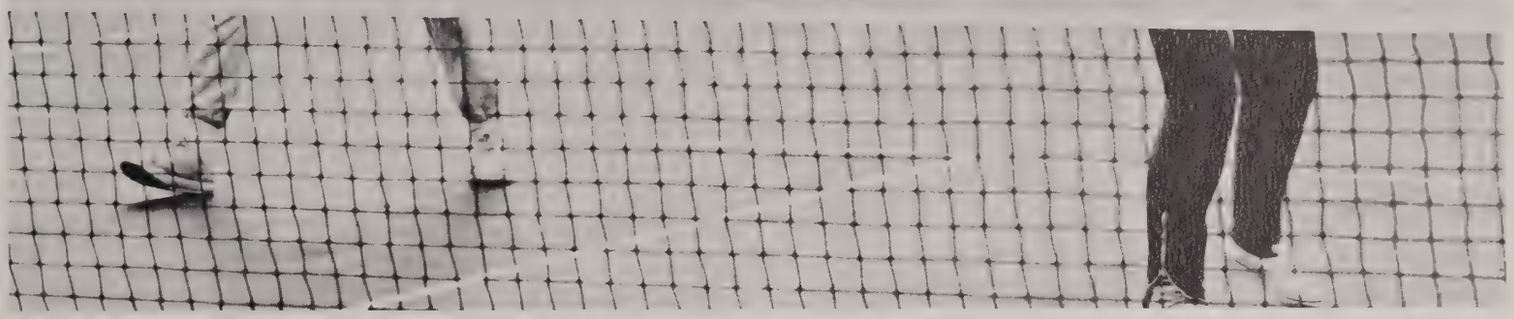
After finishing undefeated last spring, Western golfers were upset in OVC championship play and placed third in the conference. On their way to a 9-0 slate, the Toppers placed high in the Inter-Collegiate Meet in Florida. The golf team has incurred only two losses in the last four seasons. Because graduation has depleted the team's ranks, several freshmen will be used in a "rebuilding year," as Coach Frank Griffin terms it.

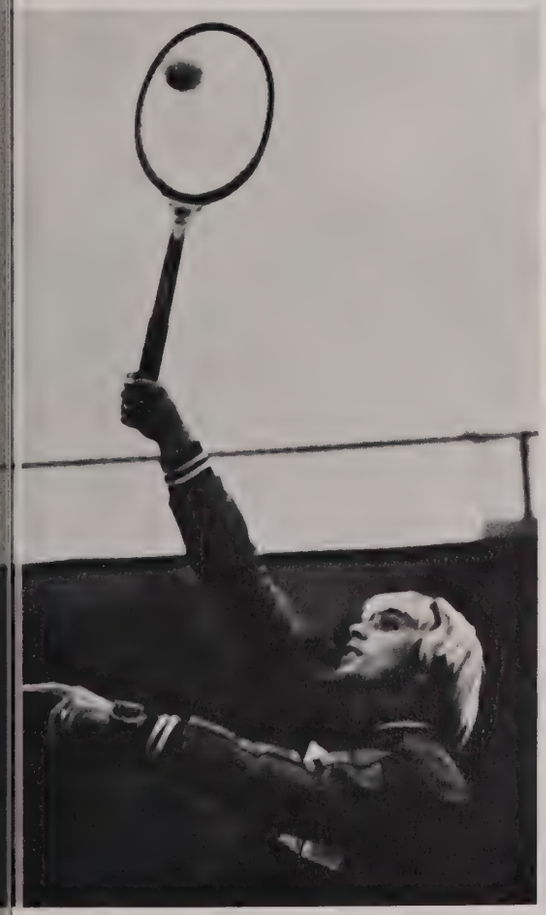
Coach Griffin looks to John Aldrich and Alan Gray to replace lost veterans from last season's squad.

Western's No. 1 golfer this year is expected to be Woody Woolwine, who finished fifth last season in the OVC individual standings.

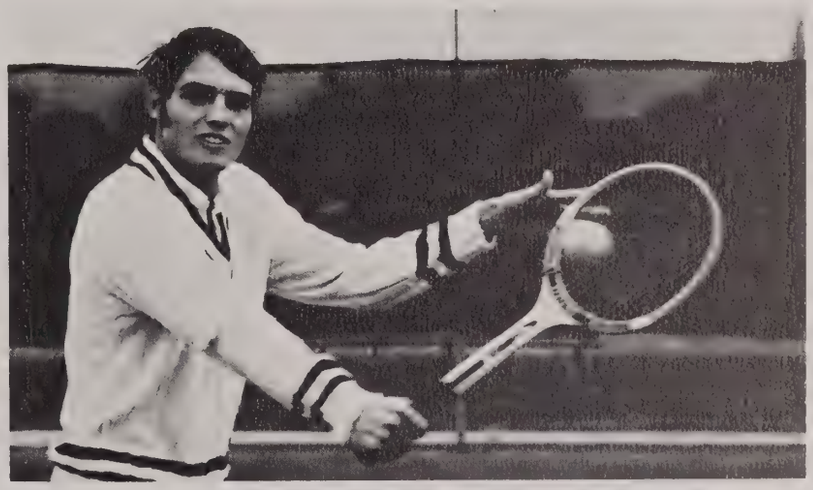
Jack Miles and Tom Tinsley hope for a better team effort in the playoffs.



The Toppers are pinning their hopes in doubles on Swedes Arvid Bergman and Anders Nilhagen.



Western's top player this year will be Marty Robinson, who is expected to lead the netmen to a conference title.



Last year's OVC player of the year, Terry Hassall, finished the season undefeated after beating top players from Kentucky and Tennessee.

TENNIS SQUAD'S BIG GUNS ARE HASSALL AND ROBINSON

Western's tennis team, coached by Ted Hornback, finished the 1970 season with a 17-5 record while capturing first place in the OVC. Individual honors in the conference championships went to Terry Hassall, Marty Robinson and Joe Glasser. This season, additional help is expected from Swedish players Bergman and Nilhagen.

For the fourth consecutive year, Western won the OVC All-Sports Trophy, indicative of the best-balanced athletic program in the seven sports in which OVC teams compete for championships.

The 1969-70 Hilltopper teams earned a total of 112 points as they won three first places in basketball, tennis and track; a second in football, and thirds in golf, baseball and cross country.

SPORTS OFFER STUDENTS 'GAMES PEOPLE PLAY'

This year the intramural and recreation personnel tried to provide the space and equipment for every kind of sport imaginable. And their efforts were rewarded with keen interest and wide participation by a record number of independent, Greek and dormitory teams.

The range of activities was set up to offer everyone something to do—no matter what their skills—and competition between teams renewed old rivalries and awarded the winners trophies for their efforts.

Faculty members have also joined in by organizing teams and making full use of the equipment. Under the leadership of the physical education and recreation department, the intramural program has developed into one of the most popular activities on the Hill.

Teamwork makes the difference when the sport is table tennis and the competition is between friends.

Physical education activity courses introduce many students to such sports as archery, which develops steady hands and keen eyes.

A streak—a break through the line and it's a touchdown in flag football. More than 500 men took part in this year's competition.

Developing grace and form on the parallel bars provides a personal victory for the participant.

(Left) Since Western is a basketball-minded school, it's only natural that intramural basketball should be one of the most popular activities and the winner's trophy one of the most highly prized. (Above) One of the newest campus sports, soccer, caught on quickly as Western's team played an expanded schedule with other schools in the state.

The men's intramural program consists of three leagues—independent, Greek and dormitory. Each team competes for the league championship and the opportunity to play for the over-all school championship.

The 1969-70 championship was won by Sigma Alpha Epsilon, which was the fraternity champion. Keen Hall topped the dormitory teams while Breckenridge Country Club won the independent league.

Activities not in the intramural program but available to students, faculty and staff include judo, wrestling, dancing, gymnastics, scuba diving, archery, weightlifting, soccer and billiards.

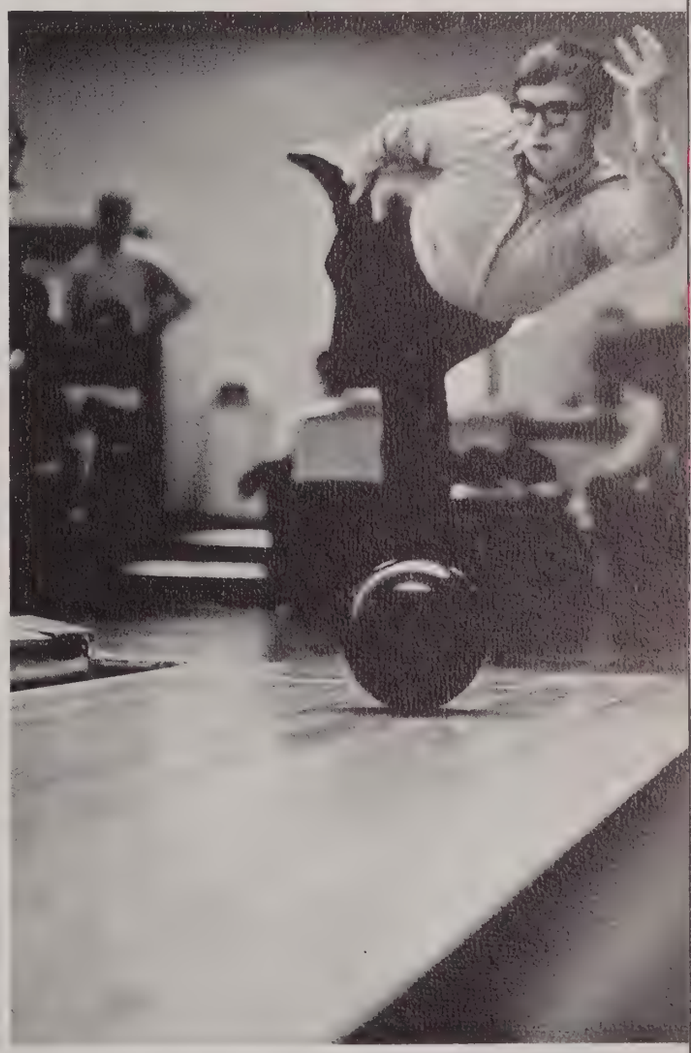
Winning is supposed to be only a secondary reward for playing a good game, but the girls playing field hockey seem to have forgotten that as they battle tooth, nail and hockey stick, for the ball.

Flag football becomes a match of wits and muscle when the game involves rival teams. This year Augies Animals came out on top by winning the championship from Delta Tau Delta.

Women's intramural competition on campus is divided into two leagues—sorority and independent. A trophy is awarded to the team in each league with the most points at the end of the year.

Phi Mu was the sorority champion for 1969-70, and the independent championship was claimed by Off-Campus. Special individual awards also went to Cindy Dietrich and Lydia Stevens.

Nobody ever said basketball was a woman's game, but when the coeds take to the hardwood there's almost as much excitement as when the Hilltoppers hit the floor.



Getting the ball down the alley may take a little more effort than just a twist of the wrist or a different approach.

DEPARTMENTAL DEANS

Dero G. Downing, President

PRESIDENT OF THE UNIVERSITY

To reach the pinnacles of success to which Western aspires, we must continue to commit ourselves to the University and take pride in it—the kind of genuine pride which gives meaning to the motto, "The Spirit Makes the Master," and places value upon the rich traditions that are a part of our great heritage.

What is success—and how can we measure it? It isn't necessarily bigness either in numbers, impressive facilities, expansive curricula, or other such spectacular elements to which we often point with pride. Our success is measured by how well we utilize the resources available to us—how effectively do we apply the tools, the physical facilities, human resources, and other elements in providing a quality educational program?

Real success is marked by the numbers of students who are given the needed assistance to achieve their educational, professional, and vocational objectives. It is the degree to which we stimulate or motivate students to achieve at the highest level of which they are capable or even inspire them to go to heights beyond—new vistas opened—new interests developed—new talents discovered.

University-wide emphasis has been and must continue to be planned upon quality. It is not expected, nor is it necessary, that we be of one mind. We must remain versatile and adaptive—not bound by techniques and procedures, not restrained by comfortable habits and customary ways—understanding and accepting, however, that we must have unity of purpose and an attitude of cooperation. We must be constructive, informed participants in the university community and accept the responsibility of doing our jobs with renewed standards of excellence.

COLLEGE OF APPLIED ARTS AND HEALTH

The newest of the six colleges at Western was established on July 1, 1969 by the Board of Regents. The College of Applied Arts and Health includes a variety of disciplines which convert the findings of science and technology into principles of behavior which result in a higher level of living for man and society.

There are two divisions within the college: Applied Arts which consists of Home Economics, Family Living, Library Science and Military Science and the Health Division comprised of Dental Hygiene, Health and Safety and Nursing. The dean of the college coordinates these two areas and is administrator of the University Hospital and Outpatient Clinic. Besides the Associate degree in Nursing and Dental Hygiene and Bachelor degrees offered in several areas, the Applied Arts and Health College offers the Master of Arts degree in Library Science, Vocational Home Economics and Child Development and Family Living.

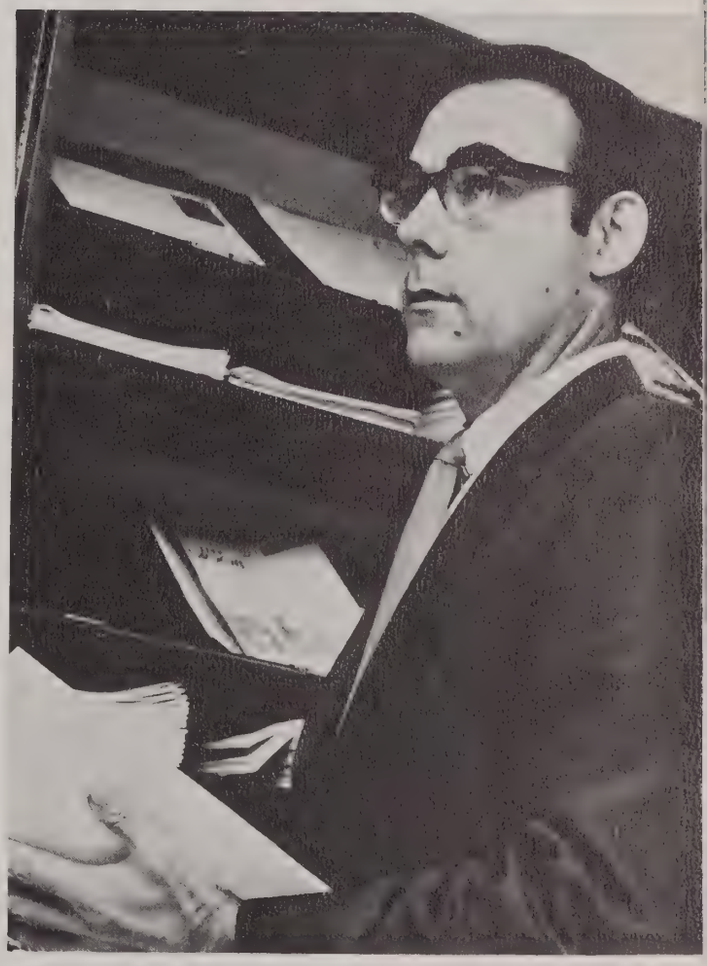
DR. WILLIAM A. FLOYD, Head of Department of Home Economics and Family Living

LUCY A. ERWIN, Head of Department of Nursing

DR. FREDERICK C. PFISTER, Head of Department of Library Science



MAJOR HUGH L. RIDER, Acting Head of Department of Military Science

BOWLING GREEN COLLEGE OF COMMERCE

The College of Commerce had 2632 students enrolled as majors in the six undergraduate fields of the college. The college offers a minor in Social Work in which 167 students are enrolled. It also has programs leading to the Associate of Arts degree in Data Processing, Office Administration and Small Business Management. Graduate degrees are offered in Business Administration, Public Service, Economics, Government and Sociology.

The faculty, consisting of 100 members, is active in research and publication this year. Ten books were authored or co-authored by faculty members and a significant number of papers and articles were produced.

A special program in corrections is now being offered under a Law Enforcement Education grant along with several other projects.

OGDEN COLLEGE OF SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

Ogden College of Science and Technology includes the Departments of Agriculture, Physics and Astronomy, Biology, Chemistry, Engineering Technology, Geography and Geology, and Mathematics. In the academic year 1970-71, more than 2400 full time students were enrolled for instruction in science and math courses, including over 1,000 students majoring in the sciences. More than 125 faculty members are involved in the instruction, research and public service programs of the college this year.

Undergraduate instruction in the sciences and mathematics at Western is directed toward: 1) The production of mathematics and science graduates who are sufficiently well-grounded in their subject that they may make significant contributions in graduate work, teaching, or industry. 2) The teaching of mathematics and the sciences to non-majors in a meaningful and applicable way.

Except for a Masters Degree program in Engineering Physics, which has been offered for several years, Masters Degree programs in each of the departments except Engineering Technology, were approved in 1967 and started the following year. The college occupies five buildings.

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION

While the opportunity to educate teachers is seen as a function of the total institution, the College of Education assumes primary responsibility for teacher preparation. The College offers programs which are specifically designed for the professional development of teachers and school leaders. The programs encompass the pre-service, in-service, and continuing education aspects of the teachers' professional preparation.

The College of Education is composed of the Department of Elementary Education, Secondary Education, Psychology, Industrial Education, Physical Education and Recreation, Guidance and Counseling, School Administration, and the Jones-Jaggers Laboratory School. It is housed in six separate buildings on campus in addition to the new four story College of Education Building which was opened for use at the start of the 1970 summer session. The significance of the College of Education in the total University picture is reflected in the fact that approximately 63 per cent of the undergraduate degrees and 88 per cent of the graduate degrees awarded for the 1969-70 school year, including the summer session, were awarded to students graduating from Teacher Education Programs.

POTTER COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

For the first time in the history of Potter College elected student representatives from the Academic Council had full voting privileges as members of the Curriculum Committee. Numerous art exhibits and new courses in Black history and literature were offered. Inter-departmental endeavors included an operetta and French-language play. New scholarly publications by the faculty included books in Kentucky oral history by Dean W. Lynwood Montell, a collection of poems by Jim Wayne Miller, a work on Thomas Merton by Dr. James Baker and continued research on the novels of Zane Grey by Dr. Carlton Jackson. Long range plans include preparation for the seventh annual Summer in Mexico Program at the University of the Americas and anticipated completion of the Ivan Wilson Center for Fine Arts presently under construction.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

Western has been offering graduate degrees almost continuously since 1931. With the granting of university status, an opportunity was presented for strengthening existing programs and providing a wider choice of program areas.

The graduate program at Western is offered through the combined efforts of the Graduate Council, composed of members representing the graduate faculty and the various colleges. It is also charged with the duty of recommending and reviewing policies pertinent to the operation of the Graduate College.

Western has been granted the power by the State Legislature and Board of Regents to offer programs leading to the Masters degree in ten areas. While most of the degrees require both a research tool and a thesis, the requirements are not uniform between departments. Each degree program is tailored to the department in which it is offered so that the graduate student may obtain the best training and knowledge in his particular field of study.

While the current graduate enrollment is 1158, the trend of increased enrollment is clearly demonstrated with an average increase of 175 students per semester.

The Graduate Faculty, Graduate Council and the Dean of the Graduate College are constantly evaluating existing programs, revising program requirements, and exploring the possibilities of new offerings as the need becomes apparent.

The facilities of the new Graduate Center figure very prominently in the future plans of the Graduate College. The nine-floor structure will house a 350,000 volume library, study areas, classrooms, seminar and conference areas and the offices of the Dean and staff.

DR. JOHN D. MINTON, Dean of the Graduate College and Vice President for Administrative Affairs

ORGANIZATIONS

SCHOLAR OF THE UNIVERSITY

Philip R. Morgan was named Scholar of the University at the annual Honors Convocation in March. A pre-med major from Mayfield, he maintained a 4.0 average for his first three years, the period for which the award is based. He was a member of Alpha Epsilon Delta, pre-med honor society, for two years. Morgan was presented a plaque at the convocation and was recognized during May graduation ceremonies. He is now continuing his medical studies at Vanderbilt University.

Also honored at the convocation were the scholastic leaders of the senior, junior and sophomore classes.

Ranking number two in the senior class was Helen S. Holman, of Glasgow. A business major, she maintained a 3.98 average for six semesters of work.

Sandra Spears, a junior from Louisville, was leading her class with a grade-point average of 3.97. She is majoring in mathematics.

Tied for top honors in the sophomore class were David L. Hendrix and James W. Hendricks, both of whom had 4.0 averages. Hendrix is a mathematics major from Greenville; Hendricks, of Clarksville, Tenn., has a double major of mathematics and chemistry.

Ruby Elizabeth Anderson: Las Cruces, N.M.; Speech, Theatre

HONORS PROGRAM ENCOURAGES THINKING

The Honors Program reflects the conviction that the contemporary university has a major responsibility to turn out thinking men and women. The ultimate purpose of all education is to encourage a vital and intelligent approach to living. The program is designed to impress upon the participants the importance of thinking rationally about world affairs and life in general.

All eligible students are encouraged to participate in the program, which consists of special courses open only to those students maintaining a high academic standing.

Courses in the Honors Program are designed to challenge and motivate the student who excels academically. Such courses encourage interaction and exchange of ideas among students and instructors, through an emphasis on group discussion rather than a lecture approach.

Qualified students are encouraged to enroll in honors courses that fit their interests. The smallness of classes and personal attention given students make these courses appealing to advanced students, since the increased competition challenges them to reach their highest potentials.

OUTSTANDING STUDENTS WIN ORATORICAL HONORS

AVA CHARLENE CROWE was the winner of the SNEA Oratorical Contest in April 1970. The Bowling Green sophomore won with her speech entitled "Urban Violence: Response to Government."

Four oratorical contests are held at Western each year and are open to all University students. For freshmen and sophomores, the SNEA Oratorical Contest for women and the Robinson Oratorical contest for men are held in April.

Juniors and seniors can participate in the American Association of University Women (AAUW) contest or the Ogden Oratorical Contest for men, both held in December. The winners of the AAUW and Ogden contests participate in the state contest in February.

Senior BILL WEATHERS, of Elkton, won the 1970 Ogden Oratorical Contest in December. The topic of his speech was "Politics That Work."

A speech major, CAROLYN SIKORSKI, took top honors in the 1970 AAUW contest. The Mountainside, N. J., junior spoke on "The Plight of the American Indian in an Anglo-American Society."

A.S. Attempts to Change Image With Meaningful Endeavors

The Associated Students is now in its fifth year of operation at Western, and this year's administration has tried to pull the group beyond its embryonic stages into a more substantial role. Building on the programs of the past, we have endeavored to erase the image of the Associated Students as strictly an entertainment committee and to assert the responsibility of student government to become involved in all aspects of student life. The task is a slow, frustrating one on a campus where apathy and lack of communication seem at times to be insurmountable; but, we have broken some new ground.

A group of overburdened executive officers, a Congress which plows through often hectic weekly meetings, a Judicial Council struggling for authority, and a miasma of committees continue to chip away at frontiers of student government against innumerable obstacles.

Some creeping advances into the academic area have been made. There are now eight students on the Academic Council and sixteen on the various curriculum committees of the University, many of whom serve on important academic sub-committees. The A.S. Congress has been expanded to include academic representatives from each college, which promotes a philosophy of student government as an active agent in influencing academic policy. The first attempts at faculty evaluation are being expanded upon with the goal of producing more discriminating and less bland results.

This year, for the first time, a move has been made to inject students' efforts into improving the inadequate faculty academic advisory system at Western. This, it is hoped, will evolve into a strong supplemental program of student-to-student advisement. We are also investigating such additional possibilities as a student tutorial system.

General services to the students has been the object of many probings. An active environmental board has co-ordinated various ecological interests, taking on special projects and disseminating information. A student discount program with local merchants has been maintained.

The A.S. is now working to provide some form of legal service to the students, which would ultimately include a legal defense fund and a student advocates' corps. Students have been encouraged to take their problems, particularly those involving violations of their rights, to the A.S. which has sought to open necessary channels for redress.

The "entertainment" aspect of our activities has been expanded to become a "cultural programs" concept. Big-name concerts continue, but names not of the "top 40" variety, such as Ravi Shankar, have been brought to campus. Theatrical events have been sponsored, as, for example, the co-sponsorship of "1776."

A significant addition to A.S. offerings this year has been the invitation of a student-run lecture series which has brought several well-known and provocative figures to campus. It is the feeling of many of us that this series has offered an aspect of educational exposure heretofore lacking at Western, despite the nasty letters.

This year's effort has been one toward liberalization and accentuation of student responsibility and self-governance. A push for an open speaker policy—from student demand for it, student participation in formulating and passing it, and then in implementing it meaningfully—has yielded results.

The battle for self-regulated dorm hours has been a major concern of the Congress. A jointly co-ordinated undertaking at developing dorm self-government within an over-all A.S. structure has produced what appears to be a viable system.

This has been the year of the struggle to enact a new constitution with a student code of rights and strong student judiciary. No A.S. action to date would augment student self-governance more than the drafted judicial system.

This was the year that Congress finally endorsed a document which would significantly alter the composition of that body and replace guaranteed special-interest representation with a more democratic system. Ultimate success along these lines will depend on student willingness to uphold the increased responsibility of an increasingly democratized framework.

—John Lyne, president
Associated Students

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

The Executive Council is made up of the four executive officers and three members elected from Congress. Its function is to make recommendations to Congress on major actions and to consider policies and proposals prior to their presentation to Congress.

Front Row: Brett Butler, treasurer; Carol Gray, secretary; John Lyne, president; Peggy Hundley. Second Row: Joe Gerard; Glen Sweet; Doug Alexander, vice president.

CONGRESS

The Congress of Associated Students is composed of a maximum of 43 members. Its function is to establish policies and programs, to rule on petitions from student organizations seeking recognition by the University, and to propose modification for University policies affecting the activities and welfare of students.

ASSOCIATED STUDENTS

The Associated Students is in a position to oversee the vital processes of the University from the student point of view. Results are seldom spectacular, but students may at least be comforted by the knowledge that students are there when the Academic Council or curriculum committees make a decision affecting them.

A student is present when the Board of Regents acts; and students serve on most committees of the University. The student voice is slowly expanding, and the Associated Students is doing its best to work toward a meaningful role for student government.

JUDICIAL COMMITTEE

The Judicial Committee, consisting of seven student members, interprets the A.S. Constitution, hears appeals of all election disputes, rules on student traffic violations, and considers questions of student conduct referred to it by the Dean of Student Affairs.

RULES AND ELECTIONS COMMITTEE

The Rules and Elections Committee sets up all election laws, decides disputes arising from elections, and considers and reports on proposed amendments to the constitution.

NOVICE DEBATE TEAM members are Jim Isenberg, Ruth Hottell, Sheila Vincent, and J. Regis O'Connor, coach.

The debate team is divided into senior and novice divisions, based on the experience of team members. The team competes in various meets during the year, and annually serves as host for the Kentucky Colonel classic, which was won this year by Morehead.

The team was accompanied by outstanding speech majors on its trips to Mississippi State and Samford. They also competed at University of Illinois, University of Kentucky and Wisconsin State, winning several awards.

DEBATERS MATCH ORATORICAL SKILLS

VARSITY DEBATE TEAM members are Norman Sims, Leonard Matheny, Andy Shuping, Ralph Partridge, Mitch Taub.

HERALD MARKS 47th YEAR WITH CONTINUING PROGRESS

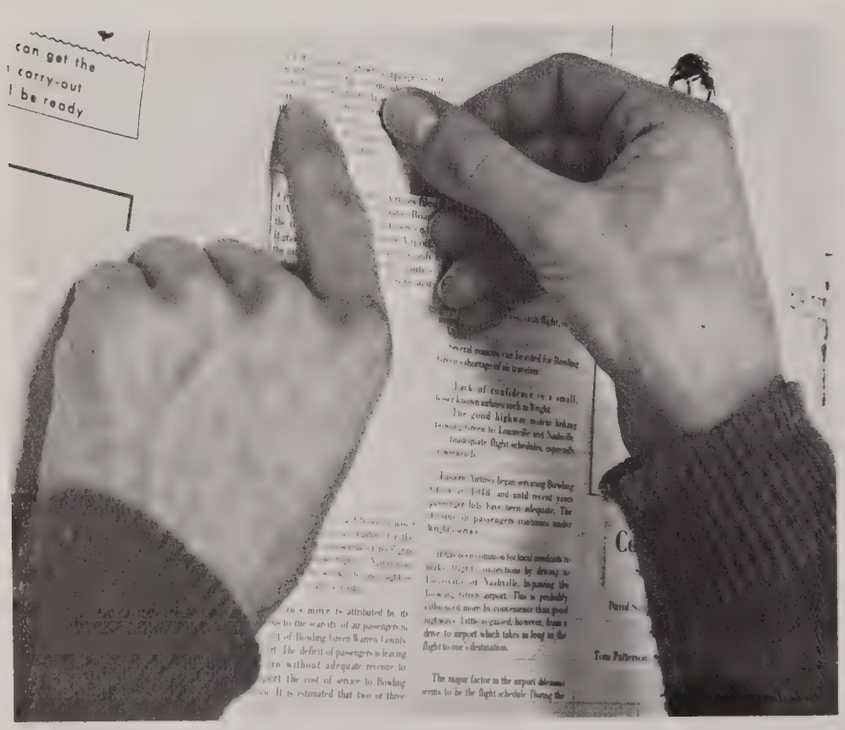
"New" was the key word for the College Heights Herald this year with new offices in the Academic Complex, a new director of publications, a new department and new printing equipment.

Co-editors David Sutherland and Richard Morris took a more conservative view of college and national issues than some of their predecessors had taken. Some students and faculty members were especially angered by the paper's editorial stance on the controversial commission report on the Kent State University shootings.

The Herald has been most outspoken on the type of entertainment on which the Associated Students has chosen to spend the students' activity funds.

David B. Whitaker was named director of publications in the newly created mass communications department.

(Right) Co-editors Richard Morris and David Sutherland guided the publication through a year which produced 57 issues of the paper, a record number for the Herald. (Below) Hours of work each week go into the publication of the bi-weekly paper. With the aid of new equipment, more work can be done in the campus printing office than ever before.



The duties of Herald advertising manager were taken on for the second year by Jeanne Jackson.

Tom Patterson, sports editor, prepares to set a headline while Robert Adams, an adviser, helps with the job of proofreading the copy.

Filing deadline set Sept. 15 for Academic Council seats

By RICHARD MORRIS

September 15 has been set as the deadline for filing for student membership on the Academic Council.

To be qualified for membership on the council, a student must meet the following qualifications:

—Have earned a minimum of 45 semester hours of credit.

—Have a minimum grade point average of 2.0.

—Be a declared major in a department of the college he is proposed to represent.

—Have earned at least a semester of residence credits at Western.

Students planning to run for one of the six seats must obtain the a declaration of candidacy with Dr. Carl P. Chaney, Chairman of the vice president for academic affairs. A prospective candidate should have a biographical sketch prepared and a photograph obtained. Campaigns in this election are prohibited from campaigning.

The election, to be conducted by the Associated Students, can take place no sooner than 10 days after the filing deadline.

Ballots will be one student and one faculty member representing each of the six colleges of the University.

The term for each member on the council is one year. Except for voting rights, the six associate members have full voice in council matters. Only the president and vice president of Associated Students are voting student members.

Students will be allowed to vote only for candidates representing the college in which they hold a major. Those students undecided in a major may cast votes for candidates in the college of their choice. Students who have not declared majors will not be permitted to vote.

Dorm occupancy soars to a record 100.5%

By CLARK HAMES

Dorm occupancy has risen to 100.5 per cent for the fall semester, according to Director of Housing, Robert F. Griffin.

The 11 residence halls on campus are currently housing a total of 4,431 students, highest in the history of the University.

However, Griffin is quick to point out that the .5 per cent above normal capacity level is not creating any immediate problems.

Study areas in the dormitories are temporarily being used to house the surplus of students.

Additional accommodations are being considered, however, Griffin said, the study areas will be vacated and redecorated for study-area purposes.

The latest figure indicates that 2,847 women residing in the 11 women's dorms, while 1,584 men are being housed in the five men's dorms.

This semester's percentage of occupancy represents a 3.5 per cent increase over the 1969 fall semester totals, when the dorms were filled to 97 per cent of capacity.

It also represents a similar increase over the dorm occupancy totals for the 1970 spring semester, when only 87 per cent of the dormitory rooms were occupied.

The spring dip in occupancy caused concern on the part of several administration officials, and rumors of mandatory housing for freshmen and sophomores began circulating around the campus.

Those rumors proved to be groundless, however, and now that

Former head of P.E. department, Dr. William Solley, dies at 48

Funeral services were conducted yesterday afternoon at Christ Episcopal Church for Dr. William Solley, 48, head of Western's Department of Physical Education and Recreation for the past five years.

City-County Hospital officials said Dr. Solley was dead on arrival at the hospital at 5:05 p.m. Saturday after suffering an apparent heart seizure at a physician's office. He lived at 1720 Normal Drive.

Solley headed the Department of Physical Education and Recreation from 1961 until the end of the 1970 spring semester, when he resigned to devote more time to teaching and research. He continued as a professor in the department.

Wanny leaves to his field, he was president elect of five honor societies conferred this year by the American chapter of the American Academy of Physical Education and Recreation. The award by the 14-state district cited his efforts to upgrade programs of physical education and safety education and his writings in the field.

He was a freshman colonel in the U.S. Army Reserve and was commanding officer of headquarters, Second Battalion, 399th Infantry, 77th Brigade, a Bowling Green-based unit of the 100th Division. A recipient of the Armed Forces Reserve Medal, he was a veteran of 20 years' service.

Solley was awarded the bachelor of science degree from Western in 1947 and the master's degree in 1948. As an undergraduate student, he was a football star. He received the doctorate from Indiana University in 1951.

A native of Louisville, he began his career in Kentucky public schools as a teacher and coach at Gordo, Ala., High School in 1948.

After receiving the Ph.D. degree in 1951, he was appointed chairman of the Department of Physical Education at the University

A.S. Congress to propose student code

By DAVID SUTHERLAND

In a code of rights for students enrolled at Western? This is one of the questions that will be discussed at the Associated Students Congress meeting Thursday.

John Lyne, A.S. president, reports that the committee to be proposed would investigate "student rights in relation to dorms, free speech, campus groups, or in short, students and the law."

Lyne said the committee would be a student handbook, "some kind that there ought to be a set of rules and regulations jointly authored by students, faculty and the administration," Lyne said. The code would be a better system of rules by which to govern students than the present method employed, Lyne indicated.

Lyne also discussed plans for expanding the judicial council, the governing body that is responsible for implementing the rules. Over a period of two years, a system of lower courts will be established to handle most cases, with the present judicial council acting as a high court.

Other projects being established in the A.S. offices are the organization of a weekly radio program and plans for Homecoming. The radio program, Lyne feels, would help so many students satisfied as to the activities and issues being of every student on campus. The program would be aired in the near future, Lyne said.

A.S. plans for Homecoming include the sponsorship of two concerts and co-sponsorship with the University of a Broadway play. The concerts will be free to students with I.D.'s but tickets must be purchased for admission to the play.

The night before the paper comes out is a busy one for the Herald staff and advisers as stories must be finished, headlines written and all the pieces pasted in place, ready for the cameras. Every member of the staff learns how to handle a variety of jobs.

MUSICAL OFFERINGS RANGE FROM BACH TO ROCK

The Department of Music has an active concert schedule, which embraces a wide variety of offerings. Under the auspices of this department are the Orchestra, Choral Union, Madrigal Singers, Marching Band, Choir and Brass and Percussion Ensembles.

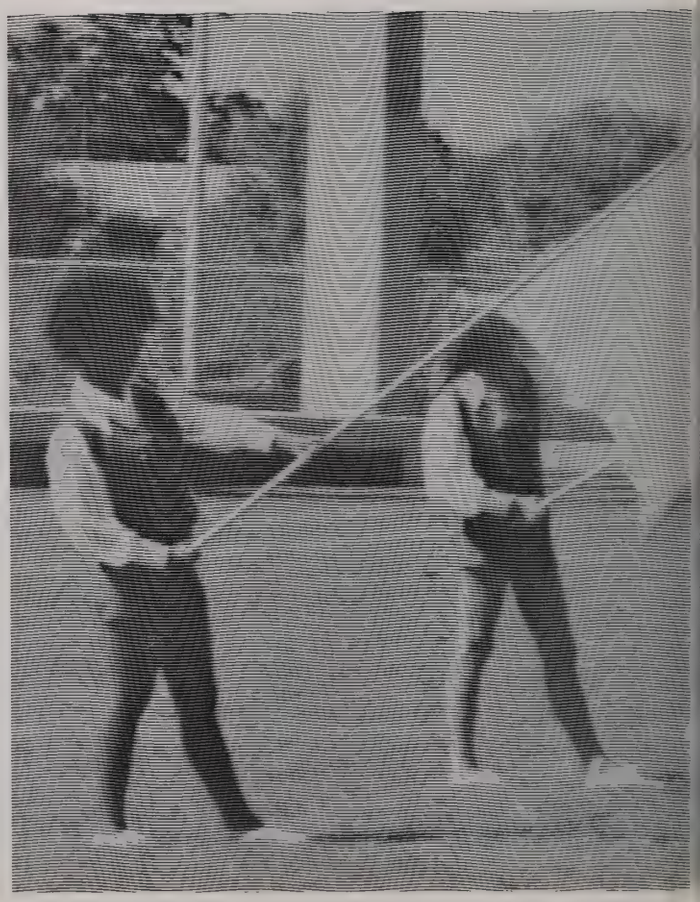
These groups have offered a large selection of programs to the Western student, ranging from the classical music of Beethoven to the Gilbert and Sullivan musical, "H.M.S. Pinafore," presented in conjunction with the Department of Speech and Theatre.

Gemini 15, under the direction of David Livingston, continues to present popular music at campus performances and on tours, and Delta Omicron and Phi Mu Alpha professional fraternities presented several programs of interest.

The Community Concert series, under the auspices of the Bowling Green Association, has completed the musical and fine arts opportunities for Western students by presenting four concerts this year.

Western played host to 31 high school bands participating in the annual Kentucky Music Educators Association festival at L. T. Smith Stadium on October 17.

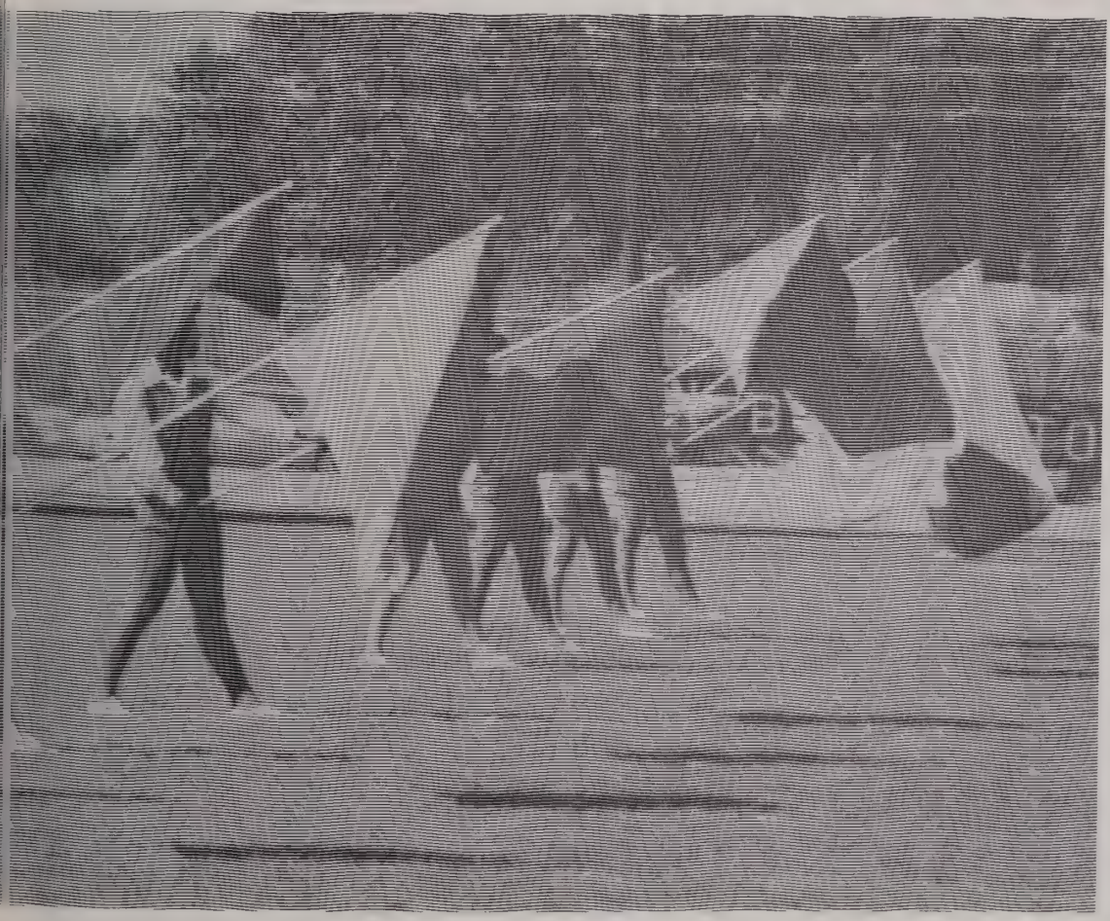
A pensive moment precedes that long-awaited performance.



Western's flag-wavers add swirling, twirling red and white to the three-ring circus effect of the half-time show.

It is said that a musician should be so familiar with his instrument that the two become as one.

When Western's band takes the field on Saturday afternoons, the high-stepping Silver Girls lead the way.



A little rain may send shivers up the back of a flutist or make marching a "slip and slide" affair, but there's no turning back when it's the band's turn on the field.

There's a lot more to a good marching band than fancy steps and intricate routines. The music has to sound good.

Hours of practice go into each band performance, so it's no wonder band members think of their unit as being "the pride of Kentucky."

Western's choral program provides opportunities for vocalists to gain experience in the concert setting as well as in the classroom.

ROTC gives students a chance to sample military life

Daily drills precede the exhibition meets and parades for the cadets, but the visit of a pretty coed afterwards seems to make it all worthwhile.

Students at Western are offered a four-year program in the Reserve Officers Training Corps in connection with the United States Army. The over-all objective of the ROTC program is to produce qualified officers for the Army and the Army's Reserve Units.

The ROTC program at Western offers a diversified curriculum. Various aspects of military life are explored: History, Organization and Mission of the ROTC; Map Reading and Aerial Photography Reading; Logistics; Military Laws and Regulations. The course is designed to promote and develop in the student such qualities as Americanism, patriotism, citizenship, firmness, fairness, and physical and moral courage. It is also designed to develop apparent and latent leadership to face problems and provide solutions and make acceptable decisions.

Supplementing the varying fields of possible study, the Department of Military Science offers a wide selection of extra-curricular activities. The Pershing Rifles, Special Forces, Scabbard and Blade and the Rebelettes are activities offered at Western.

The Pershing Rifles is an organization of military students who specialize in exhibition marching and drilling exercises.

The Special Forces Team, a relatively new branch of the department, trains its members in parachuting, reconnaissance and guerrilla warfare.

An honorary organization, Scabbard and Blade is made up of distinguished military students.

The Rebelettes is a woman's marching and drill team that operates in conjunction with the Pershing Rifles.

Ushering at football games can be a tiring business without the proper nourishment.

The ROTC program at Western offers a very diversified curriculum for both the male and female student.

Most students studying under the Military Science curriculum receive valuable field training along with the social benefits of the Military Ball, held each winter.

In recent months, the ROTC program nationally and the military in general have been under constant and severe criticism. Many people abhor the idea of training college students in "the art of war." On some university campuses, ROTC buildings have been burned and the cadets have been physically harassed.

But at Western military students are either respected or ignored by other students. This attitude has helped create a relatively harmonious atmosphere on campus.

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

Since the founding of Western's Inter-Fraternity Council in 1963, it has been the governing body of the thirteen national chapters located on the Hill. The IFC acts as coordinating body and sponsor for several campus events including the Miss Western Contest, Greek Week activities, the annual IFC Homecoming Dances, annual blood drives, and the United Givers Fund campaign.

Western's fraternities are represented nationally by the National Interfraternity Council (NIC). This organization directs Greek activities throughout the United States and Canada. Western's IFC has been an NIC member since 1964.

The Summa Cum Laude Academic Award of NIC was won here every year from 1964 to 1969. This award signifies that each member chapter's academic standing was above the all-campus men's average, thus rating Western's Greek system as one of the top 32 systems in the U.S. for academic standings.

PANHELLENIC COUNCIL

The Western Kentucky University Panhellenic Council, composed of three representatives from each sorority, is the governing body for the nine Greek social sororities on campus. The members of Panhellenic coordinate rules and party schedules for fall rush so that it may be beneficial to both the rushees and the sororities.

The activities of Panhellenic for this year included an orientation tea for rushees and their parents, a Panhellenic dance for all students, and participation in the United Givers Fund drive on campus. Other activities which Panhellenic will sponsor are the annual Greek Week festivities, community projects, and a proposed Greek orientation for interested high school senior girls.

Panhellenic strives to achieve a good relationship between the school and the Greek system. Its purpose is to foster an atmosphere which involves scholarship, culture, and friendship for the Greeks here at Western.

Above all the student is both great and insignificant.
A small man in a large line or a nameless face in an auditorium class.
He is the most important product of that university—its first concern
And the only criterion for measuring its success.

After putting in long hours of work on the Talisman, the staff likes to get away from it all with a visit to one of Bowling Green's finer restaurants. Pausing outside are Doyle Cunningham, Pat Kreke, Ginger Johnson, Mary Lou Larrick, Julie Bush, Marla Van DerKarr, Irene McCarty and Charlie Upton.

The Talisman staff enjoys the "sweet smell of success" as they realize all their labors will produce an outstanding Western yearbook. Seen during one of their staff meetings are Jeannie Catlett, Betty Graham, Susan Skiba, Keith Lawrence and Paul Hightower.

THE LAST WORD

Last May when we began to put our thoughts together about what should be in the 1971 Talisman we both agreed that, above all, there must be change. An annual is a book of memories which lends itself to remembrances of names and faces for years. But to be truly meaningful it must also cover the students' lives in the university and their thoughts and feelings about the world as a whole. Because we recognize the two-fold purpose of the yearbook, we decided to divide the two elements as completely as possible.

Volume 1 sets forth the life of the student—his thoughts, hopes, fears and moods as he grew during the year 1970-71. Volume 2 is a "reference book"—a collection of pictures which serve to please parents, organizations and administrators and which come in handy when trying to find out what a blind date looks like.

Vast changes have been made in this book, but they have all been made in an effort to bring the Talisman up to date and to keep it on the level of yearbooks in major universities across the nation. All the changes we made were carefully considered, and hopefully, will make this one of the most interesting Western books in years.

This year has all been part of a learning process and we have gained a great deal of knowledge about human relations, with others as well as between ourselves. As co-editors we had to learn to compromise but we found that we were in total agreement on the majority of ideas in this book. Though it's a cliche—this yearbook would not have been possible without our staff. There were those who became reluctant when they realized the amount of work involved, but most put in many hours on all sections of the book.

There are two people whom we feel did such outstanding jobs that they deserve special recognition. Betty Graham put in countless hours of work in all sections and often made personal sacrifices when we needed her help. She was our most reliable staff member, always available to help.

Our advisor, Paul Schuhmann, has taken an interest in the book which has been unparalleled in recent years. He is also responsible for the vast majority of the photographs and layouts. Though we often felt like hitting him over the head with a typewriter because of his constant pushing to get finished, we have to admit that his dedication to this book has been the basic factor in our being able to make the changes we wanted and still being able to produce a quality yearbook.

We feel that we have produced a good yearbook—relevant in content and style. We have tried to cover every aspect of this university. We have found ourselves reflected in certain parts of this book and hopefully every other student will be able to identify himself in some sections also.

—Barbara Benagh and Molly Wilson, co-editors of 1971 Talisman
